GUN FIGHT IN CAMBRIDGE; 2 SHOT

Curley Threatens Suit Over Film Play Charges

VICTIMS OF SHOTS IN HOSPITAL

Two Men Struck by Bullets as Lead Flies Thick in Cambridge Streets; Woman Is a Target

Two men are under treatment for bullet wounds at Cambridge hospitals, and one of them is facing arrest as a result of a shooting in the streets of Cambridgeport today.

Shortly after midnight Moore street, Cambridgeport, awoke and sat up in bed at the sound of a shot.

Everyone ran to look out of the window. In the middle of the street they saw a large man with a revolver in his hand peppering away at the fleeing figures of another man and a woman.

BATTLES WITH POLICE.

He jumped upon the back of the man with the gun and the two figures swayed and heaved and grunted back and forth in a desperate struggle while every window was filled with onlookers.

The man with the gun had the better of it. He twisted in the patrolman's grip. He brought his revolver against the officer's stomach.

Patrolman O'Loughlin had also heard that first fusillade. He appeared just then and took a hand.

The policemen and the man with the revolver fought for a moment; then he with the gun broke away from them and dodged into a yard and around a house.

One of the patrolmen followed, the other dodged around the other way to head him off.

MANY SHOTS FIRED.

Their guns were going; and so was his.

Fifteen or twenty shots were fired before the fugitive made his escape in the darkness.

At half past 1 o'clock this morning a man applied to the Cambridge Relief Hospital for treatment. He had two bullet wounds in his face. One bullet had passed through his nose.

"What happened to you?" they asked.

"Got hit by stray bullets," he said, "in some shooting over in Cambridgeport."

He gave the name of Albert Sockham of No. 288 Columbus street. The hospital notified the police.

Patrolman Turcotte and O'Loughlin came down to see him.

"He's not the man we tussled with," they decided.

Somewhat later, another man pressed the bell of Dr. Daniel McKillop of No. 307 Broadway. He had a bullet in his back. He said his name was John Adams, and that he lived at No. 783 Main street, Cambridgeport.

HIT IN GUN FIGHT.

"I got hit in a gun fight on North Russell street, in town," he explained.

The bullet had lodged in the big man's powerful back muscles, and the wound was slight. The doctor reported to the police when they questioned him in their canvass of all physicians. Shortly before noon, Chief Inspector Hurley and a squad of officers ready for war went to the man's room.

He yielded without resistance. They found a revolver in his room; but he vigorously denied any part in the affairs of the night.

Bride Takes Blame and Bridegroom Is Set Free

Alexander A. Silva and his bride (Lillian J. Conway). The young husband was discharged in court when the young wife assumed responsibility for deception in securing the marriage license.

ACCUSE BEACON ST. DOCTOR OF SMUGGLING

Dr. Joseph B. Twadelle, a practicing physician, of Beacon street, was arrested today by Deputy United States Marshal Condon on the charge of smuggling narcotic drugs into this country from Canada. The federal authorities allege that Dr. Twadelle facilitated the illegal transportation of 4,000 morphine tablets and 16,000 heroin tablets into this city.

Dr. Twadelle formerly practiced in Madison, Me. Until recently he has been located on Tremont street.

He was arraigned before Commissioner Hayes and was held in $1,500, his wife giving bail for him and being accepted by the commissioner.

AUSTRIAN VILLAGES SWEPT BY FLOOD

London, Sept. 19.—Many lives have been lost by the bursting of a dam in Bohemia, sweeping away several factories. The villages of Dessendorf, Tiefenbach, Tannwald, Schonburg, Schwarow, Grosshammer and Harata are inundated. Ten bodies of victims have been recovered.

Alexander A. Silva's bride cleared him in the city court today from a Charge of giving false information when he applied for their marriage license last July.

The bride, who was formerly Miss Lillian Conway, testified that she was only seventeen when the application was made, but that she had told Silva she was eighteen and that he took her word for it and was thus led into stating her age as eighteen when he asked for the license.

The complaint against Alexander was lodged by the bride's father, Michael J. Conway of No. 38 Highland avenue, Malden. The application for a license was made in Boston, so the arrest was made for the Boston police.

The officers took the bridegroom from his wife and home at No. 46 Highland avenue, Malden, at 4:30 on the morning of September 13. The bride appeared in court with her mother-in-law that morning, ready to testify for her husband, but the case was continued until today.

Silva is twenty-six. His bride, who, as she admitted today, was only seventeen when she was married, has since passed her eighteenth birthday.

Hold Motorman Guiltless.

Judge Hayden today found Motorman Martin J. Forbes guiltless of blame in the tragedy of a few days ago when the car Forbes was driving struck and fatally injured Pineus Kaix, sixty-five, of Austin street, Roxbury.

FITCHBURG PROHIBITS PICTURE

Mayor Curley today declared that within the next twenty-four hours he would place a $25,000 attachment against a newspaper which published certain charges against him in regard to his activities in behalf of the film play, "Where Are My Children?"

When the Mayor was seen by the newspapermen today he was asked if his official censor, John F. Casey, had seen the film play. To this he replied in the affirmative.

When asked for copies of Casey's report on the picture, the mayor stated that the report had been a verbal one.

"REPORTED FAVORABLY."

"Did Mr. Casey give a favorable report of the picture?" the Mayor was asked.

"He did," was the reply.

"Did Mr. Casey recommend that any parts of the film be stricken out?" was the next question.

"As" case he answers: "Mr. Casey gave a very favorable report of the picture and so no attempt was made to censor it, as there had been no complaints."

"Have you, yourself, seen the picture, either privately or at a public performance?" was the next question.

"No, I have not seen the play at all," was the answer.

During the interrogation the Mayor was busily engaged in signing official papers and did not look up at the reporters. When there came a pause after his last answer, he looked up.

"There is just one question you haven't asked me," he said.

SUGGESTS QUESTION.

"What is that?" came from one of the reporters.

"Well, you haven't asked me what I am going to do about these charges."

"Well, what are you going to do about it?" was the next question.

"I am going to see a lawyer at 1 o'clock, and one of the newspapers wants to be ready to take care of a $25,000 attachment within the next twenty-four hours."

His attorney in the action, he said, would be Daniel H. Coakley.

"Where Are My Children?" was barred from Fitchburg theatres today. The film was shown yesterday afternoon for the first time at the Lyric Theatre, and Mrs. S. Howland Woodward, president of the Women's Club, and a deputation of clergymen promptly filed a protest.

CROWD TURNED AWAY.

Police Inspector Thomas J. Godley, who acts as theatrical censor of Fitchburg, notified Manager Cofman of the theatre that the film could not be shown again. A crowd that gathered for the afternoon performance today was turned away.

Manager Cofman said that Edward Golden of the Boston Photoplay Company, which owns the State rights to the play, would go to Fitchburg at once to appeal to the courts and make a test case of the incident.

John M. Casey, Boston's theatrical

GERMANS GAIN ON STOKHOD

By International News Service.

Berlin, Sept. 19.—Teutonic forces took by storm the Russian bridgehead position on the Stokhod at Zarecze, the German War Office announced today. Thirty-one officers and 2,511 men were taken prisoners.

The report states that the Russians and Rumanians have suffered heavy losses in their attacks in the Carpathian. On the western front bad weather is hindering operations. The War Office statement follows:

"Western front—Army of Prince Ruprecht—Bad weather is prevailing in the Somme region and no big engagements are reported. East of Ginchy and before Combles we gave up some trenches. Attacks at Bellov and Vermandovillers were repulsed.

TRENCHES PENETRATED.

"Army of the Crown Prince—On the left bank of the Meuse a French attack on the western slope of Le Mort Homme temporarily succeeded in penetrating our trenches.

"Eastern front—Army of Prince Leopold—German and Austro-Hungarian troops under General Clastus stormed the Russian bridgehead north of Zarecze, on the Stokhod, and purged the enemy so far on the eastern bank. Thirty-one officers, 2,511 men and seventeen machine guns were captured. Near Perepelnikl, between the Sereth and Styp, a German patrol captured two officers and eighty men.

"Front of Archduke Carl—Our counter attack on the Narajuvka brought further success. The number of prisoners increased to over 4,200.

ADMIT RUSSIAN GAIN.

"There is lively fighting in the Carpathians from Smotryes as far as the Kirlibaba region. Several Russian attacks were repulsed. The enemy gained some advantage in the Ludowa region.

"On both sides of the Dorna Watra the Russians and Rumanians suffered heavy losses in vain attacks.

"In Slebenbuergen, the Rumanians were repulsed south of Hatzeg and are being pursued.

"Balkans—Army of Field Marshal von Mackensen — Our troops penetrated several points on the Russo-Rumanian front. In Macedonia fighting is taking place in the Florina sector."

Big Decrease in Death Rate of the Nation

Washington, Sept. 19.

In ten years advancing medical science and improved sanitation have decreased the national death rate almost one sixth.

The Census Bureau today declared that during 1915 only 13.8 persons out of every 1,000 died. The falling off was led by Rhode Island, where the rate was reduced 16.8 per cent. over 1905. New York was second with 14.6, New Jersey third with 14.3, and Massachusetts fourth with 12.7.

SOUTH END WOMAN STRANGELY DEAD

Mrs. Belle Justin, forty-three years old, was found dead in her apartment at No. 2 Sharon street, South End, today. She had a cut over her left eye and the police at first proceeded on the theory that she had met her death by violence.

Station 5 officers took into custody Mr. and Mrs. Arnold McDougal, who occupy apartments in the same house, and James Nichols of Sharon street.

Medical Examiner Leary performed an autopsy and found that the woman had died probably by swallowing her tongue and strangling to death in her sleep. Upon the receipt of this report, the police released the McDougals and Nichols.

GERMANS DENY ATTACK ON OSTEND

By International News Service.

Berlin, Sept. 19.—British official reports of September 16, telling of an aerial attack upon German batteries in the vicinity of Ostend, were officially denied here today. No such attack occurred, it was stated, but on Saturday night a hostile flyer attempted to attack Zeebrugge, but failed, his bombs falling into the sea and causing no damage.

TWO BIG BRITISH STEAMERS SUNK

London, Sept. 19.—The British steamers Dewa and Lord Treedegar have been sunk by German submarines, it was announced today. The Dewa was built in 1913 and displaced 2,882 tons. The Lord Treedegar was built in 1914. It displaced 3,450 tons.

The Dewa sailed from Portland, Me., July 19, for Avonmouth. The Lord Treedegar left New York August 24 for the Far East ports.

DERAILED SUBWAY CAR CAUSES DELAY

Traffic in the subway was tied up for about thirty-five minutes shortly after 9 a. m. today, when an inward-bound Bay State car from Lynn left the rails at the Causeway street entrance near the North Station.

Many subway cars were routed over surface lines until the car was placed in position.

None of the passengers of the car was injured.

LAWRENCE MAN HELD IN PLOT

That "Doc" Edward Donahue of Lawrence was one of the heads of the million-dollar blackmail syndicate, which has been broken up by the arrest of several members in Chicago, was reported in special dispatches from Chicago today.

The blackmailers, men and women, with the "Mann Act" as a club, extorted large sums of money from prominent men and women in Boston and elsewhere, according to the federal authorities in Chicago.

Seven members of the syndicate under arrest in Chicago were scheduled for a hearing before United States Commissioner Foot today.

DONAHUE UNDER ARREST.

Officials said that Donahue, who is under arrest, appeared to be one of the leaders, while Frank Crocker, a former Bostonian and a member of the syndicate, has by his confession made possible the breaking up of the syndicate.

A woman who said she was Dona-

CARD CASE SENDS YOUTH TO COURT

A card case landed George La-Rochelle in East Boston court, where he was held in $1,000 on a continued charge of stealing an automobile. He is a West End youth, formerly a bellboy in a down-town hotel. On the evening of August 28, a young man jumped into an automobile owned by Daniel C. Smith of Haverhill, which was standing empty at Revere beach, and started away. Mrs. Smith saw the act and raised an alarm. The young man jumped out and ran away, but a card case was left behind in the machine. This led to the arrest of LaRochelle.

MAYS TO OPPOSE DETROIT

Detroit, Sept. 19.—Fighting desperately to retain their slim lead in the thrilling American League pennant fight, the Red Sox open a three-game series with the second-place Tygers here today.

Manager Bill Carrigan will probably select Carl Mays to oppose Detroit, while George Dauss or Bill Jones will do the hurling for Jennings' band. Both in first place as a result of their 4 to 3 win over the White Sox, the Champions are confident that they will beat Detroit today.

Upon the result of the three games here between the aruites of Carrigan and Jennings hangs the American League pennant, according to the form chart. Thanks to the lacing the Athletics gave the Tygers yesterday, the Red Sox are in first place and have the pace-making job to defend, instead of to attain, as would have been the case had the Tiger tail not been twisted by the lowly Mackmen.

Having trounced the White Sox soundly, and probably eliminated them from the race, a victory in this series undoubtedly will give Boston the pennant. Only the wildest of upsets can otherwise disarrange the little matter of World's Series play.

SOX HAVE ADVANTAGE.

Only a clean sweep for the Tygers can force the Red Sox down to a point where they will not have an edge on the field for the flag. Their two Western rivals must gain such a lead very soon that it will be impossible for the pursuing Bostonians to wind up at the top by winning a majority of the MAN HELD IN "BIRTH CONTROL" CASE.

Frederick R. Hill of Charlestown was held in $500 for the Superior criminal court on a charge of having sold contraceptives. The police said Hill admitted to have sold Mrs. Annie McDevitt, a government witness, for the rest of the witnesses together so all would testify. Olson was not the man who distributed literature among them.

REPEL NEW GERMAN DRIVE

By CHARLES F. BERTELLI,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Paris, Sept. 19.—German troops have opened a new offensive in Champagne, according to the official communique issued by the French War Office today. They have made numerous attacks on the Russian positions at Souain and Somme-Py, but all have been repulsed, it is announced.

The communique states that operations on the Somme front have been hindered by bad weather.

The text of the official communique follows:

"On the Somme bad weather is hindering operations. During the night we made some progress east of Berny and took some prisoners.

"In Champagne a bombardment yesterday by the enemy against our positions west of the Souain-Somme road increased at the end of the evening, and was followed by many German attacks, particularly in the Russian sector, upon which five successive assaults were launched.

"At every point our curtain of fire and machine guns sharply arrested the adversary, who suffered serious losses. Some prisoners remained in our hands.

"On the left bank of the Meuse (Verdun front), a German surprise attack upon a small post north of Avocourt and two counter-attacks upon a trench conquered by us yesterday on the southern slope of Lemort Homme were completely checked.

"West of Pont a Mousson an enemy detachment which tried to reach our positions north of Flirey was dispersed by rifle fire."

Penetrate German Trenches at Three Points.

By SYDNEY B. CAVE,
International News Service Staff Correspondent

London, Sept. 19.—Heavy rain is hindering operations by the British troops in France, but nevertheless the English soldiers have succeeded in penetrating German trenches at three points.

Today's official report announces that five more of the British aeroplanes engaged in the recent operations have failed to return.

The War Office statement follows:

"Heavy continuous rain has fallen in the last twenty-four hours. The general situation is unchanged. In the neighborhood of Richebourg-L'Avoue we entered enemy's trenches at three places, capturing prisoners and a machine gun, and inflicting casualties. Our casualties were slight.

"Since last night's report five more of our aeroplanes have failed to return."

WAR SUMMARY

The mystery which has surrounded the Dobrudja campaign was cleared today by official bulletins from Berlin and Bucharest.

According to these bulletins, the advancing forces of the Teutonic allies have come upon a prepared line of defence, garrisoned by reinforced Rumanian and Russian armies, and extending from Rasova, on the Danube, through Cobadinu to the sea at Tuzla.

Here the Teutons have begun an attack; and the result of the battle thus opened will decide whether the campaign here shall develop into a Teutonic defensive or whether the Rumanian defence, by its collapse, shall lead the Teutons into an attempt to crush Rumania.

The line chosen by the Rumanians for defence is a strong one. It is about ten miles south of the railroad from Cernavoda to Constanza; and it is bolstered in spots by the great earthworks built by Trajan many centuries ago, and still standing in imposing strength.

Assuming that the German allies do not break this line, it is interesting to consider what the Germanic offensive has accomplished:

1—It has shortened the battle line from the Danube to the sea. That line at the frontier is about ninety miles long. As it stands today it is about forty miles long.

2—It has conquered 3,500 square miles of Rumanian territory, including all of that tract taken from Bulgaria after the second Balkan war, and a third as much again.

Rainy weather is hampering the operations on the Somme front. The rain appears to be so heavy that even the British "tanks" cannot fight it. So many wonderful attributes have been attributed to these marvelous creations that it will be surprising if some do not tell us the "tanks" are designed to catch the heavy rainfall and keep the ground dry for manoeuvring.

In heavy fighting on the Russian front, the Russians have not only failed to make further gains, but have lost most of the ground they conquered Saturday, according to the Berlin official statement. So far as can be judged from the reports, the Russians are not for the present to be considered as dangerous.

The Serbians and French appear to be making progress west of Lake Ostrova, south of Monastir. It will take a long time to accomplish anything, however. Even the fall of Monastir would be of no particular strategic importance.

KAISER SHIFTS GENERAL STAFF TO THE EAST

London, Sept. 19.—The wireless press today gave out a Berne dispatch quoting the Suddeutche Zeitung as stating the German Great General Staff has been moved from the western to the eastern front.

The Great German Headquarters directs operations on all fronts. It is here the Emperor and chief of staff spend much of their time. It was in Belgium in the early weeks of the war and later was moved to northern France.

In the Spring of 1915 it was in a town near Lille. Unofficial reports say it was transferred later to a small village further east.

Since the appointment of Field Marshal von Hindenburg as chief of staff, it has been reported that he desired to leave in France and Belgium sufficient men to hold the line and devote his energies to the east, for he is credited with the belief that it is in the east the first conclusive victory must be won.

Last week he returned from France to the eastern front. It was also reported that Emperor William, Chancellor von Bethmann-Hollweg and representatives of Austria-Hungary, Bulgaria and Turkey were at the eastern headquarters for a conference to decide the shaping of the campaign in the east.

Italians Battle With Bulgarians

By International News Service.

Paris, Sept. 19.—Italians and Bulgarians are engaged in battle in the region of Mount Beles on the Salonica front, the French War Office announced today in its report on Balkan operations. It also stated that in Western Macedonia Serbian troops had repulsed attacks by German troops at Vetrenik.

The official report follows:

"Army of the Orient—On the Struma there has been no change.

At the base of Mount Belesi Italian troops are fighting sharp conflicts with Bulgarian forces in the region of Poroj.

"On the front of the Serbian army there was a violent cannonade on both sides. Two counter attacks by the Bulgarians in the sector of Vetrenik were repulsed by the Serbian artillery fire.

"On our left wing the enemy has made no counter attacks in the direction of Florina."

Bulgars Evacuating Monastir, Is Report

By International News Service.

Salonica, Sept. 19.—Serbian, Russian and French troops have driven the entire right wing of the Bulgarian army out of Greece across the Serbian frontier and are pressing on toward Monastir, according to official advices received here today.

Recognizing their inability to hold Monastir against the strong forces pursuing their beaten troops, the Bulgar leaders are said to be evacuating that city, part of the Bulgarians having already been withdrawn toward Uskub.

The capture of Florina by the entente allies has seriously menaced the Bulgar centre and French officers today predicted that the entire enemy front would be drawn back several miles to prevent its being flanked west.

British Gain at Salonica Front

By International News Service.

London, Sept. 19.—The following report on the operations by the British troops on the Salonica front was issued by the War Office today:

"Sunday night pickets east of Ostjak Bridge (across the Struma) were attacked by the enemy, who was repulsed. The enemy's camp at Procsenic was bombarded by our aircraft Monday, apparently successfully. There were no developments in the Doiran region."

Austrian Flyers Drop Bombs Near Venice.

By International News Service.

Vienna, via Berlin, Sept. 19.—The Admiralty announced today that on Sunday night a squadron of naval planes successfully dropped eight heavy bombs on the railroad station at Mestre (near Venice) and hit the station buildings numerous times. The aeroplanes were violently shelled, but returned unharmed.

QUEEN OF SERBIA WORKS AS SERVANT

By International News Service.

Paris, Sept. 19.—The mystery regarding the whereabouts of Queen Nathalia of Serbia, who disappeared at the outbreak of the war, was cleared up when she was discovered working as a common serving woman in a big hospital in Bordeaux.

Pope Benedict Prays for Venice

By CAMILLO CIANFARRA,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

Rome, Sept. 19.—Pope Benedict today sent to Monsignor La Fontaine, Patriarch of Venice, a letter deploring the repeated aerial attacks made by the Austrians on that city, "dear to the papal heart and precious to religion and art."

The letter states that the Pope has remonstrated vainly with Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria, but exhorts the inhabitants to show courage and patience, at the same time expressing the hope that the aerial incursions will decrease.

In conclusion, the Pope gives his blessing to Venice and assures the Patriarch that he prays for the city's safety.

Minor Successes for Turks Announced

By International News Service.

Constantinople (via London), Sept. 19.—Minor successes for Turkish troops on the Egyptian and Caucasus fronts were announced by the War Office today, as follows:

"On the Caucasus front a surprise attack by our right wing was successful. The left wing repulsed the enemy.

"On the Egyptian front enemy aviators bombarded El Arish without damage. Enemy cavalry advancing east of the Suez Canal was repulsed."

BATTLE AROUND HALICZ STUBBORN

By International News Service.

Petrograd, Sept. 19.—Stubborn fighting on the River Narayuvka, in the region of Halicz, is going on between the Russian and the Teuton allies, the Russian War Office announced today. All the enemy attacks were repulsed. The statement follows:

"An enemy attack in the region of Dubrowa was repulsed. West of Brody we surprised an enemy advanced post, bayonetting twenty men. An officer and twelve men were taken prisoners.

"Stubborn fighting is going on along the River Narayuvka. All the enemy attacks were repelled.

"In the Carpatnians we carried the heights in the region of Shibeni and Pneva mountain.

"In the Caucasus we occupied a wood near a bridge over the Palpachal, in the vicinity of Karidjan."

SERB LIBERATION IS BELIEVED NEAR

By International News Service.

Athens, Sept. 19.—Serbian public officials who have been refugees in Greece for many months were summoned to Salonica today to be prepared to resume their duties. This indicates that the allies regard the liberation of a large part of Serbia to be imminent.

TRUST MAY 'OWN ALL COAL IN U. S.'

By International News Service.

Washington, Sept. 19.—The Federal government this afternoon filed with the Supreme Court of the United States its brief in the anti-trust case against the Reading Company, the Philadelphia & Reading Railway Company, P. & R. Coal & Iron Company and others. It charged that unless the Reading Company is dissolved "It will own or control every ton of commercially available coal known to exist."

The brief charges that "The Reading combination is the backbone of the alleged monopoly of anthracite coal; that it controls about two thirds of the entire deposits, and that further monopoly is being sought. The Reading Holding Company through its subsidiaries—the Reading Coal Company and the Reading Railway Company—controls the production, transportation and sale of anthracite coal in the Schuylkill region and that this control was acquired and is maintained by other than normal methods of industrial development and by means wrongful and unlawful in themselves."

The decision of the Federal District Court, in which the case was fought out formerly, was only partially favorable to the government and the department of justice took the case to the Supreme Court.

The government asks that the coal companies and roads named be completely severed from each other. "To the end that competition in the anthracite coal trade may be restored."

Credit Churchill With Tank Idea

London, Sept. 19.—Secretary of War Lloyd-George says credit for the new British armored car, known as the tank, is due to Winston Churchill more than to any one else.

"He converted me when I was Minister of Munitions," he declared. "We went ahead and made them on Admiralty advice. You see the Germans by no means have a monopoly of inventive ingenuity."

PARALYSIS GAINS IN STATE

One death and thirty-nine new cases of infantile paralysis in Massachusetts were reported to the State Health Department during the twenty-four-hour period up to 9 a. m. today. Six of these were reported from Boston.

The death was that of Louise P. Kibler, three years, of No. 601 Metropolitan avenue, Hyde Park.

Thirty-nine sets a new twenty-four-hour record for this epidemic in Massachusetts. The previous high number reported in one day was thirty-four on September 12, one week ago today.

The total for the nineteen days so far in September reaches 360. The August total was 253, the July total, 107. September now equals the combined totals of the two preceding months.

There are three new cases in Warren, the first reported in that Worcester county town.

FEAR PLAGUE'S SPREAD.

While the State health authorities do not expressly say so it is evident that they are greatly concerned over the trend of the epidemic from western to eastern Massachusetts.

The Federal and State authorities began a joint fight against the epidemic in the Western part of the State, especially in North Adams and Springfield. That was a month ago.

Now Dr. Walter H. Brown, the State expert on epidemics, who has just returned from the Western counties, will devote his energies to the Eastern section.

EASTWARD MOVEMENT.

The eastward trend is indicated by the location of new cases. Newburyport has two more, Brockton, Beverly and Newton each two more, Haverhill one more, Malden, Chelsea and Quincy have new cases.

Holyoke, in the western part, has six new cases and a total of thirty-six for September. The Board of Health there is so energetic that the State and Federal authorities have left the fight in local hands.

The Holyoke Board of Health is the only municipal one known to the State Health Department which sent to New York for some of the anti-poliomyelitis serum used in Manhattan. This is a blood serum, taken from the veins of recovered cases or from parents of children having the disease. But the epidemic still rages in that city.

Quincy's sixth infantile paralysis case was reported to the board of health today. Carlo Cola, eighteen months old, living in the rear of No. 140 Water street, is the latest victim of the disease.

TWO IN BROCKTON.

These were the thirty-nine cases reported by the State Department of Health today:

Warren—May Leach, Southbridge street; Herman Pietts, West Main street; Lee Furgal, Manning road.

Newburyport—Georgiana Crandall, No. 10 Temple street; Courtenay Whittey, No. 9 Broad street.

Cambridge—Three cases; names withheld by request of local health officials.

Milton—William M. Middleton, No. 4 Norton place.

Quincy—Ellen Close, No. 70 James street.

Beverly—James Stirling, rear of No. 376 Cabot street; Ethel G. Gordon, No. 66 Bisson street.

Chelsea—Ruth Cassier, No. 58 Marlboro street.

Everett—Lillian Cancuilli, No. 44 Lewis street.

Haverhill—Anabell Wilton, Saunders' Hill.

Malden—James Claire, No. 113 Adams street.

Revere—Gertrude Douglas, North Franklin street.

Newton—Two cases in Newton Centre; names withheld.

SEVERAL IN HOLYOKE.

Holyoke—Georgo Bourque, No. 13 Mosher street; Rene Bourque, No. 13 Mosher street; Lucille Ducharm, No. 20 Centre street; Leonard Perrault, No. 17 Grover street; Mary Kennedy, No. 324 Hampden street; Hattie Murphy, No. 37 Hamilton street.

North Hadley—Helen Wynorski, No. 51 Hight street; Andrew Kachin, No. 39 Hight street.

Springfield—Howard O. Pearson, No. 135 College street.

North Adams—Ruth Kean, No. 393 West Main street; Marion Kean, No. 393 West Main street.

Pittsfield—Robert Boas, No. 18 Charles street.

Boston—Six cases, names withheld by request of Boston Health Department.

The two cases in Brockton are the first reported from that city. South Hadley also reported its first cases. The town adjoins Holyoke, which is said by the State health authorities to be the most seriously infected city in the State.

Newton health authorities followed the lead of Boston and Cambridge and requested the State Department of Health to withhold the names of the cases in that city.

Thirty-five cases of infantile paralysis and ten deaths were reported today in New York.

BOY IS ACCUSED IN BOLD ROBBERY

Gilbert E. Crosby, fifteen, of Kingston street, Charlestown, who was to appear in the Juvenile Court today, was defaulted. Crosby, with three other boys, it is alleged, pounced upon John J. Lawlor and went through his pockets. After a chase by Lawlor and an officer Crosby was caught.

Jurors in Roper Murder Case Who Visited Scene of Crime

SEVEN WIVES SUE TO WIN DIVORCE

Seven wives filed divorce suits in the office of the clerk of the Norfolk Superior Court at Dedham today. Three live in Brookline. The Norfolk divorce session comes in December.

Of the Brookline cases probably the most notable of the three is that brought by Mrs. Mildred Frances Page against Louis Coues Page, the Boston publisher, charging him with neglect to provide suitable support.

Mrs. Bonnie Belle Smith of Brookline sues George D. Smith of Brookline for divorce, charging cruel and abusive treatment. They were married on September 3, 1908, and lived in Boston and Brookline. She seeks custody of Bonnie Belle, six years, and Cornelius D. Smith, five years, and also asks the court to be allowed to attach her husband's property in $10,000.

Mrs. Edith Victoria Thomas of No. 19 Thayer place, Brookline, formerly of Parkton road, Jamaica Plain, sues Joseph F. Thomas of Brookline for divorce, charging gross habits of intoxication and non-support. She asks alimony.

Hattie C. Preble of Milton filed divorce action against Hollis Preble of Oakland, Me., for desertion on September 8, 1913, twelve years after marriage.

Abigail McDonough of Quincy seeks divorce from Thomas McDonough of Glaskow for inhibition after fourteen years of married life. She asks the custody of her daughter Lillian.

Mrs. Vincenza Geromini of Franklin would divorce Deodate Geromini of the same town for cruelty and abuse. They were married nine years ago and have two children.

Mrs. Rosaria Merisalis of Quincy asks divorce on the ground that Alfred Merisalis was intoxicated, deserted her and is now in parts unknown.

The jurors in the Roper murder case, who went to trial yesterday in the Middlesex County Court, were taken today to view spots which will figure in the testimony.

They went first to Roxbury to see the house at No. 16 Walt street where, it will be claimed, Albert J. Roper was at the time his father, Albert Roper, was killed in Tewksbury.

Then they went to the North Station and by way of Reading to Tewksbury to visit the scene of the crime.

EXPLAIN TO JURORS.

The significance of the points they visited was explained to them by Assistant District Attorney Sidney Orr of Middlesex County and by Warren W. Fox, counsel for the defence.

The visit to Tewksbury was expected to occupy all the afternoon. First witnesses in the case will be heard tomorrow.

Just who the first witness will be has not been made known by the prosecution. These witnesses will be carefully examined to offset any alibi which the defence may introduce, it is believed.

JURY PLEASES ROPER.

Young Roper, whose name, by the way, is Albert James instead of Albert Jerry Roper, expressed himself as being pleased with the jury. He was in good spirits when court adjourned Monday, smiling and talking jauntily with his chief counsel, Attorney Wilson. He appeared very attentive throughout Monday's proceedings, carefully checking the jury list as each name was called and making a careful scrutiny of each man as he stepped before Judge Stevens to qualify as juror.

After each man's acceptance by the prosecution, young Roper conferred with Attorney Wilson before accepting or rejecting him. In the course of the day 119 jurors of 163 summoned, were examined. Young Roper used up his entire number of challenges—twenty-two—and was granted one additional by the prosecution.

Attorney Wilson was also pleased with the jury, declaring them an exceptionally fine body of men. He expressed the belief that the trial may come to a close as early as Friday.

CALL MANSFIELD CHARGES UNTRUE

James E. McLaughlin, the Boston architect, who was selected through competition for the Commonwealth Armory building in Allston, today issued a statement to the newspapers denying Frederick W. Mansfield's statement that the Armory was accepted in an unfinished condition by the Massachusetts Armory Commission, of which former Adjutant-General Charles H. Cole was chairman.

Mr. McLaughlin characterizes the statements made by Mr. Mansfield as "manifestly unfair and contrary to facts and reflects on the integrity of General Cole."

Colonel William C. Hayes of the Second Massachusetts Infantry, now doing service on the Mexican border, wires today from Columbus, N. M., that the statements made by Frederick W. Mansfield regarding the Massachusetts troops sent to the border are untrue. Colonel Hayes says:

"Statements made by Mr. Mansfield untrue. Massachusetts sent her troops to the border better equipped and provided for, both as to arms, clothing, food and tentage than any other State. Conceded by everyone here, both regular army and National Guard, that Massachusetts troops excelled in preparedness and training, and it is appreciated by us that it was through your efforts this was made possible."

EXPECT R. I. CAVALRY TO RETURN HOME

By International News Service.

San Antonio, Sept. 19.—The First, Second and Third Pennsylvania Infantry and the Rhode Island Squadron of Cavalry, now in El Paso, are expected to be designated to leave for home when the North Carolina and Tennessee regiments arrive at the border. This order will follow the rule adopted by General Funston to dispatch the first guardsmen to arrive at the border with the new arrivals.

Halted and Were Arrested.

John E. Hayes and Frank Kelly, teamsters, pleaded guilty to stealing twenty-four cans of beans from the New Haven Railroad in the South Boston court today and were each fined $5. They stopped to open one of the cans and were arrested.

LOUIS C. PAGE SUED FOR DIVORCE

Mrs. Mildred Frances Page of Brookline filed a divorce suit at Dedham today against Louis Coues Page, Boston publisher and club member.

She charged him with neglect to provide suitable support.

Louis Coues Page was born at Zurich, Switzerland, on January 13, 1869. His father, Charles A. Page, was United States Consul at Zurich. His mother was formerly Grace Darling Coues.

The son was graduated from Harvard in 1891 and entered a Boston publishing house. He is the president and general manager of a publishing house bearing his name.

On May 27, 1904, he married Mildred Frances Parker at Norristown, Pa., who now seeks divorce and alimony.

Mr. Page is a member of the Pilgrim Society of Harvard and the Boston Athletic Association. He is best known in sport and at one time was part owner and vice-president of the Boston National League baseball club.

VISIT TO PAWNSHOP PROVES EXPENSIVE

When Harold Metzler, who says his home is in Nova Scotia, walked into a pawnshop in West Broadway, South Boston, and tried to sell a revolver, special Officer O'Neil placed him under arrest for carrying a loaded weapon. In court today Harold was fined $50, which he paid.

MISS AGASSIZ WEDS IN HAMILTON

Miss Marie Dallas Agassiz, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rodolphe L. Agassiz, and Comyns Conway Felton of Haverford, Pa., the onetime Harvard football star, were married today at Homewood, the Agassiz place in Hamilton. Rev. John J. McGarty of St. Cecilia's Church, Boston, was the officiating clergyman.

The maid of honor was Miss Anna Agassiz, a sister of the bride, and the bridesmaids were Miss Harriet Dexter, Miss Edith Perkins, Miss Elizabeth Gaillard, Miss Margaret Lyman, Miss Frances Prescott, Miss Penelope Parkman of Boston, Miss Natalie Thayer of Lancaster and Mrs. Alexander Wilson (Hope Bancroft) of Weston, a bride of the early Summer. The best man was Samuel M. Felton, Jr., a brother of the bridegroom.

The ushers were Edward C. Felton, Jr., and Winslow B. Felton, brothers of the groom; Samuel M. Felton, Jr., George A. McKitrick of Chicago, B. C. Law, Ralph Earle, Sewell Clark of Philadelphia, David P. Morgan, Jr., P. S. Allen, F. P. Whitlock, R. G. B. Parsons of New York, Robert P. Merrick, Jr., Frank H. Perkins, Donald C. Watson, Edward Cunningham, Jr., and L. Malden Sargent, Jr., Boston.

After a wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Felton will live in Calumet, Mich., where the Agassiz family is largely interested in the Calumet & Hecla and other copper mining properties in the Michigan country.

Be a Partner of R. C. Hupp In the Manufacture of Emerson Four to Sell for $395

ADVANCE IN PRICE

The price of Emerson Common Stock advances again on or before Thursday, the 21st of this month.

Emerson Common Stock has become so popular with the general public in the four short months that it has been before them, and the company is now in such a strong condition that in justice to the original subscribers we cannot maintain the present low price of $6.00 per share beyond September 21st.

WHY THIS INVESTMENT SHOULD INTEREST YOU!

Regardless of what has been said about the Emerson Motors Company, we assure you that it has been handled in a most economical, profitable, and business-like method. Four short months has put the Emerson "Four" to the front so far that the company already has received bona fide applications from responsible dealers for approximately 60,000 cars for 1917, and the company is now thinking seriously of increasing its output for 1917 to 70,000 cars, rather than the original 30,000 first planned.

On a recent trip to New York, Mr. Hupp assured the President of our company that he would have distributed throughout this country, five hundred Emerson "Fours" by the first of January, 1917, and that the 30,000 cars which are to follow, and which will be known as the 1917 Model, will be identical with the first five hundred cars turned out.

There are very few automobile concerns in America today that have as much ready cash in the bank as the Emerson Motors Company. No automobile concern ever started under more favorable conditions than has the Emerson Motors Company. These things, taken together, should prove to you conclusively the value of this present last offer of Emerson Common, by us, at $6.00 a share.

We assure you that no ordinary conditions can stop the progress and ultimate success of the Emerson Motors Co.

Officers and Directors:—

Willis Geo. Emerson, Chairman Board of Directors.

T. A. Campbell, President (formerly Treasurer and General Manager of the Imperial Automobile Company).

R. C. Hupp, Vice-President (formerly Vice-President and General Manager of the Hupp Motor Co., and automobile engineer of international repute).

George N. Campbell, Secretary and Treasurer (formerly Secretary and Factory Manager Imperial Automobile Co.)

M. L. Shanks, Assistant Treasurer (formerly Secretary of the Monarch Motor Car Company of Detroit, Mich.).

J. L. Sullivan, Assistant Secretary.

George B. Gifford, Director (General Manager Standard Oil Co., 26 Broadway, New York, N. Y.).

Charles A. Towne (Ex-United States Senator from Minnesota, now of the firm of Towne & Spooner, Attorneys, 115 Broadway, New York, N. Y.).

Ames H. Stevens, General Counsel (29 East 43d Street, New York City.).

NOW IS THE TIME

If you do not become interested in Emerson Motors, you will really have lost an opportunity to become interested in one of the best automobile propositions ever offered, one that is just as surely destined to make big profits for its stockholders, as have the various very successful companies in which it is not uncommon to have seen $100.00 invested in the start, grow, in a comparatively short time, to ten or fifteen thousand dollars.

We have backed our own judgment regarding Emerson Motors Common with many thousands of dollars of our own money, and we unhesitatingly say to you, with our reputation for never having offered to the public a failure, that we absolutely stand behind Emerson Motors.

Mail it to us at once for all the Emerson Motors Common you can possibly handle at $6.00 a share, which is the price until on or before September 21st, 1916. The closing date at that price will be strictly governed by the amount of subscriptions received before the set date.

The Emerson "Four" is destined to become positively the most popular low-priced automobile manufactured in this country. Everything points to the success of the Emerson "Four," and that is the reason we so urgently advise all of our clients to take advantage of the present low price of Emerson Common Stock and buy all they can possibly handle of it.

BIG DIVIDENDS

Already the company has created a demand for more than twice as many cars as we originally planned to make in 1917. There is no limit to the amount of money that this company can make. It is the right proposition at the right time. The officers and directors are solid, substantial business men, the company is legally and properly incorporated, has as its general counsel one of New York's leading lawyers, the books of the company are audited once each month by the American Audit Company, the company has a substantial amount of cash in its treasury, no debts of any kind whatever, and it is actively engaged at the present time in manufacturing the first five hundred cars, which is all that will be attempted for the balance of this year.

Plans have been made and contracts are being entered into to insure a production of thirty thousand cars in 1917.

THEATRES

SPARKLING BILL AT KEITH'S

B. F. KEITH'S THEATRE—May Tully's dancers received a big ovation from a monster house at Keith's yesterday afternoon and last night but not one bit more than did Arthur Deagon, late comedy star. On a sparkling bill Deagon's work sparkled. His witty songs and sayings had the house during the life of his act.

The dancers cleverly portrayed "The Evolution of the Dance," starting with the barbarian and bringing it down through the various stages to the present day dances. Bayonne Whipple and Walter Huston in a mystic comedy creation, "Spooks," went big, as did the favorite, Dorothy Granville, in a natty little sketch.

Franklyn Ardell and Marjorie Sheldon in a clever little comedy playlet, "The Wife Saver," proved an excellent attraction. Fred Whitfield and Marie Irvian, aided by Lew Murdock, a real rube, were good in a rural satire.

The Five Kitamuras with a Japanese acrobatic act closed the bill in fine fashion. The handsome robes of the acrobats, as well as the stage fittings, were greatly admired.

Budd Fagg and Julia White in a rich Arkansaw hash, the house nor satisfied until the very end when Fagg suddenly doffed a wig he wore and disclosed that in reality he wasn't a mulatto woman but in reality a white man.

Louis Stone, with a novelty dancing feature, and the nearest International News Pictorial are the other features on the bill.

ORPHEUM THEATRE—For real quality entertainment the bill offered for the early half of the week is difficult to surpass. "What Molly Knew," a comedy playlet from the prolific pen of Willard Mack, is up to the high standard of this versatile writer. The piece is admirably staged and well acted. Burton Daniels and Lester Conrad, youthful American musicians, offered a musical treat in a series of classics at the piano and violin. Thomas Potter Dunne won plenty of appreciation in a series of character delineations. Dearing sisters scored on sensational aerialists. Ramsdell presented a pretty and classy dancing act. For the feature photoplay of the big week is the latest Triangle release, entitled "The Little Liar."

CRAIG STARS IN NEW PLAY

CASTLE SQUARE THEATRE—"The Heart of Dixie," a very brilliant and intensely interesting comedy drama, dealing with Southern life, was presented for the first time on any stage last night. A record audience was on hand to greet the initial production of this pretty and heartwarming little melodrama of the South.

The primary plot of "The Heart of Dixie" is woven around the fight of a young man to save the honor and happiness of a woman, who proves to be the victim of unkind fate. The woman passes through scenes of trial and unspeakable hardships, troubles that call for all the courage she possesses.

The Southern scenes in the play are unique and well laid, while the electrical effects were very pleasing.

Included in the company are a number of talented artists, such as Bertha Julian, Charlotte Langdon, Etta Wickman, Josie Sisson, Dorothy Hays, Richard LaSalle, Jerome Brunet, Lawrence Atkinson, William Friand, Peter Possar, Willina Claire. A darkie chorus enlivened the performance with their old and new melodies of the Southland and with their characteristic dances.

GAIETY THEATRE—"The Jacobs and Jermon Proposition," "The Sporting Widows," graces the boards this week. The show is called "Circling the Globe." Harry Hooper, a character comedian of exceptional merit, and Jean Hayes, who is eccentricity personified, provide the laughs, which are frequent and hearty. Abe Leavitt and Ruth Lockwood also scored heavily with their new song sensation. William Grieves proves himself a man of many parts by his rapid-fire wit and many changes of wardrobe.

MODERN THEATRE—Ormi Hawley, Massachusetts' beautiful screen star, appeared yesterday in the first showing of the William Fox production, "Where Love Leads." In this she plays the role of a young girl who is influenced by her parents to marry an English earl who tires of her after their honeymoon. There is a lapse of years and the profligate earl entertains company that makes the house an undesirable place for the two growing daughters of the pair. The mother takes the girls to America, and while living there they meet with a woman of the underworld who masquerades as a society matron. The ensuing adventures of the mother and the girls furnish one of the most engrossing plays that have been shown on the screen. On the same bill there was shown Edna Goodrich in the Paramount Picture offering, "The House of Lies."

WALDRON'S CASINO—The attraction for the week is the big third edition of "The Globe Trotters." The production this year is entirely new in every department and nothing has been retained from last season but the title. The revue is in two acts and seven scenes and is bigger, brighter and better than ever. The program offered consists of two one-act musical pieces and a galaxy of all star vaudeville acts. The opening act is entitled "The Spender," and is well described as a "Flighty, Frivolous Fantasy, whose first factor is Fun, Fast and Furious; Fashion and Frisk Femininity."

HOWARD ATHENAEUM — The "Grown-Up Babies" burlesque company were royally received yesterday, and the girls all gave a good account of themselves and furnished a form of amusement that was thoroughly enjoyed by all patrons. This company is headed by Harry Koler, and he is ably assisted by Jack Brown, Emil Cooper and others. The girl contingent was well represented by Anna Mack, Gertrude Black, who styles herself the "Eva Tanguay of Burlesque," Madlyn Worth was another girl who had a prominent part, and the Great Reine contributed a specialty of real merit.

GLOBE THEATRE—"White slavery, as it is actually practised in the larger cities of the United States, continues to amaze Bostonians who are flocking to this theatre in droves in increasing numbers, where "The Little Girl Next Door" opened its third week in Boston to capacity houses yesterday. The compelling nature of this amazing photo-drama is intensified by the fact that, strictly speaking, it is not "drama" at all, but an official report, in picture form, of a great law-making body.

GORDON'S OLYMPIA—Another big week started yesterday with a double bill of photo-plays as the main attraction. In "Mister 44" Harold Lockwood and May Allison have roles of the sort in which they both excel, and in their latest film appearance have added to the laurels already won by their excellent acting. In "The Daughter of Maidenpert," in which Valentine Grant plays the part of the young Scotch girl, we are given another glimpse of the woods as they appear in the lumber camps of Florida.

PLYMOUTH THEATRE—The new bill will be reviewed in detail in Wednesday's AMERICAN by Fred J. McIsaac.

Plays That Remain

PARK SQUARE THEATRE—For a delightful evening's entertainment "Hit-the-Trail Holliday," George M. Cohan's great American comedy with Fred Niblo in the title part, fills the bill admirably. The comedy was a big success that has visited Boston in years.

SHUBERT THEATRE — "Katinka" began the fourth week of its run last night. This latest musical success, by Otto Hauerbach and Rudolf Friml, who were "Firefly" and "High Jinks," has become familiar to lovers of music in Boston and judging from the crowded houses at every performance it will long be remembered by those who have been fortunate enough to attend a performance.

WILBUR THEATRE—Another big week, the sixth, of the musical comedy, "Very Good Eddie," began last night, and as on practically every night since the show opened in Boston there was a capacity house. The delightful comedy with music has been here long enough now to make the "repeaters" noticeable.

MAJESTIC THEATRE—Interest in the great birth control feature film "Where Are My Children?" does not seem to flag, but rather increases as the time draws near for its debut performance in Boston. In fact, consistent were the demands from a large number of theatre-goers and welfare workers that the photo-play remain a little longer that the management has consented to stage a return visit.

TREMONT THEATRE — "Civilization" began its third week yesterday in full tide of favor such as has accorded this wonderful spectacle since its first performance. There is no secret for this success, for not only is it one of the most gigantic specacles that the theatre has seen, but its producers have invested the drama of its story with a theme that reaches and grips all classes of people, young or old.

FOLLIES ARE A DAZZLING PAGEANT

By FRED J. McISAAC.

Ziegfeld's Follies of 1916 are a dazzling pageant. They are the apex of ten years of pyramiding Follies, one upon another, and if Ziegfeld wants to go any higher he'll have to get a Zeppelin.

No matter how other shows may be faring in Boston, the Follies always jams 'em in, and last night at the Colonial was no exception to the rule. Everybody of importance in town appeared to be there, and a grand opening evening would hardly have summoned a more fashionable throng.

A few little hitches, due to setting twenty-two massive scenes for the first time, occurred during the evening. Once a big drop positively refused to set, and once the curtain toppled over a whole line of principals, but fortunately didn't hurt anybody. But these things did not affect the success of the most elaborate, the most ambitious and in many respects the most deserving Follies in several years.

COSTUMES ELABORATE.

The scenery and costumes of this production transcend anything ever brought here up to this time. Joseph Urban and the various costumers employed by him have revered upon the sublime. And it is a pleasure to say that the Follies have been inspired by the scenery to higher things than they used to do.

There is very little of the old-fashioned slapstick or vulgar comedy in this production. Some of the old-fashioned gaiety may grumble and say Ziegfeld is going back, but he will gain ten customers to one he loses that way.

The girls are as luscious, as delicate and as appetizing as a basket of hothouse fruit. It is as hard to find a homely face in a Ziegfeld chorus as to find a truly pretty one in many musical productions. It must be admitted that these beauties are rather meagerly attired. There are times when the lack of apparel is rather shocking, but the show moves so rapidly that there is never time for scandal.

WILLIAMS SHINES.

The feminine stars of the Follies this year are Ina Claire, Fanny Brice and Anna Pennington. Miss Claire's powers of impersonation are vividly illustrated by her Geraldine Farrar, Jane Cowl and Billie Burke. Miss Brice's character songs are particularly amusing and Miss Pennington's whirlwind dancing and piquant personality are much in evidence.

But Bert Williams, the lazy, black-face comedians, is in the show, and so is Will Rogers, the extemporaneous monologist and lariat thrower. Bernard Granville has the opportunity of his life in this production and makes good in a dozen different bits of character work, while Bob Barclay, another recruit from burlesque, proved entertaining.

Sam Hardy, the elevated comedian, has a lot to do and does it well. His best bit was an imitation of Lou-Tellegen as "Hamlet at Nowhere."

SETTINGS EXQUISITE.

William Fields, the juggler, has a good specialty. A new beauty, Allyn Joslyn, made a decided impression in several numbers. Carl Randall exhibits admirable dancing, particularly in his travesty on Nijinsky.

The settings are all exquisite, but the very gorgeous ones are in Hawaii with the stage full of swaying Hula dancers are very stunning, and the drop and surroundings of the burlesque upon Nijinsky and the Diaghileff Russian ballet were very remarkable. The Spanish quarters and various Shakespearean settings are all worthy of the high remarks.

The music this year deserves commendation because it is rather less tuneful than musical shows of this sort, and the drummer isn't given much to do. Music of Jerome Kern, Louis Hirsch and Dave Stamper wrote most of the music. Ned Wayburn staged the show, which goes like a rocket all the way.

PARK THEATRE—"The Velvet Paw" heads the program this week. This film is an interesting story of life in Washington as led by members of Congress and the Senate and deals in the political intrigue on child labor, which took up the attention of Congress for the past session and which is a forcible arraignment of the iniquity of evil, with House Peters and Gail Kane in the leading roles. Chief Eaglehorse heads a tribe of Indians that appear in Wesley Country and the Woman."

Q-BAN DARKENS GRAY HAIR

Harmless—No Dye

By applying Q-Ban Hair Color Restorer, like a shampoo, to your hair and scalp all your gray, streaked with gray, prematurely gray or faded, dry or harsh hair quickly turns to rare even, beautiful dark shade. Q-Ban makes hair and scalp healthy, reviving the color glands, so every strand of your hair, whether gray or not, in a short time becomes glossy, fluffy, lustrous, soft, thick, with that even shimmer of beautiful, radiant, healthy hair—just as you like to have your hair appear—fascinating and abundant, without even a trace of gray showing, only natural evenly dark, lovely hair. Q-Ban is absolutely harmless, no dye, but sold on a money-back guarantee. Only 50c for a big bottle at Liggett's-Eiker-Jaynes Drug Stores, Boston, Mass. Out-of-town folks supplied by mail.—Advertisement.

FOLLIES OF 1916 IN BIG SHOW

ST. JAMES THEATRE—"Resista," a little girl who, judging from appearances, cannot weigh more than 110 pounds and yet is able to baffle the strenuous efforts of the strongest of men to lift her, was the headliner of an exceptionally fine bill yesterday. The little lady extends a challenge to any strong man in Boston to come up on the stage and lift her, offering a prize of $10 to any one who is successful. The surrounding bill included Kingsbury and Munson offering tasty clever farce

BOSTON THEATRE—The biggest and longest vaudeville and picture program in Boston, headed by Winsor McCay, the famous cartoonist, offering his very newest and best comedy creation, and including Jane Grey in the five-part feature, "The Test," Mary Boland in the five-part morality play, "The Price of Happiness"; Edwin Stevens and Margaret Gale in the third episode of "The Yellow Menace," and a strong surrounding vaudeville bill is offered this week. Jane Grey and 4 superb cast appear in one of the most powerful pictures of the year, "The Test,"

BOSTON PROTESTS BOOST IN BREAD

Boston is making strong complaint against six-cent bread.

The six-cent rate hasn't come yet, but the objection is here and is increasing hourly at the prospect of a boost in the price of the five-cent loaf.

One of the big baking companies announced that, beginning Thursday, September 21, it would put on an extra cent on the price of its nickel loaf.

Other large bakeries are expected to join the six-cent movement and the increase will probably be State-wide.

WIDE PROTEST MADE.

The bakers say they must have the extra cent in order to show a profit, but the announcement has caused wide protest. The public had complained about the increases all along the provision line, particularly about such staples as flour, potatoes, sugar and so on.

But six-cent bread seems to irritate the consumer more than other high prices. It may be due to having to give up an extra penny so often, for families which use baker's bread usually buy fresh daily.

The bakers point to the increased cost of their raw materials, flour, lard, butter, milk and salt. Flour is $10.50 a barrel, retail.

In Massachusetts a loaf of bread must weigh 32 ounces, with halves and quarter loaves in same proportion. The bakers cannot cut down the size of the loaf.

TO FIGHT ADVANCE.

But six-cent bread will be a real hardship to many large families using baker's bread, according to Mrs. Susan E. Stevens of the Housekeeper's League. She said today:

"We must do what we can to fight this advance in the price of bread. Some bakeries will advance the price and others will not.

"Housekeepers are in many instances obliged to depend upon bakeries for their bread as they have to work and cannot get the time to make their own bread.

"Everything is so high that it is a fever among merchants to get more than ever for their foodstuff. Many merchants are looking for the least encouragement to boost prices."

Dr. Laura A. C. Hughes, school physician, regretted that the price of bread was to be advanced.

"It must be only temporary," she said. "Granted that everything in the making of a loaf of bread costs more, I am glad the five-cent bread is not to be advanced any more than one cent."

DOMINION COPPER SUITS DISMISSED

Cross suits by the Old Dominion Copper Mining & Smelting Company and the New England Trust Company were dismissed in the Supreme Court today by Judge DeCourcy by consent of all parties. The Old Dominion Company wanted the court to order the trust company to distribute $2,112,723.58, which it had received after a payment made by Albert S. Bigelow, against whom judgment amounting to $5,293,772.38 was rendered in favor of the smelting company.

By the settlement it is believed the smelting company will receive the largest part of the judgment.

TO DISCUSS OLD AGE PENSIONS

The North Dorchester Club will conduct a series of open air meetings in Dorchester and South Boston during the next week for the discussion of the old age pension question. The first of the meetings will be held Tuesday evening at Mount Vernon street and Dorchester avenue, and at Ninth and Dorchester streets, the speaker being ex-Representative William H. O'Brien of Dorchester.

$25,000 WILLED BY WOMAN TO CHARITY

The will of Sarah F. Turner of Brookline, filed in Dedham today, bequeaths $5,000 each to the following institutions: Children's Hospital; Portsmouth, N. H., Hospital; Children's Mission, Boston; M. I. U. and Retired Nurses' Home for Aged Women in Dorchester. The residue of the estate goes to relatives.

WILSON ON WAY TO NEW JERSEY

Washington, Sept. 19.—The President and Mrs. Wilson passed through Washington this morning en route to Shadow Lawn from Columbia, S. C., where they attended the funeral of Mrs. Annie E. Howe, the President's sister. They were due at Westend, N. J., at two miles from the Summer White House, shortly after 2 o'clock.

Why Suffer From Migraine or Sick Headache?

Dr. J. J. Caldwell says that this exceedingly distressing disease does not shorten life, but does not always yield to cure. Sufferers from this affliction are forbidden to continue the use of medicinal treatment every few weeks until they are forty years of age, after which headaches are less frequent, and finally disappear entirely. Palliative measures during the attack are all that it is possible to suggest, while care in the diet is the best preventive measure. The attack often be prevented by taking two antikamnia tablets when the first symptoms appear, and one anti-kamnia tablet every two hours during the attack shortens it, eases the pain and brings rest and relief. Anti-kamnia tablets may be obtained at all druggists. Ask for A-K Tablets. They quickly relieve all Pain.

censor, was asked to confirm or deny a report that Mayor Curley had visited the offices of the Boston Photoplay Company, which is producing "Where Are My Children?" and the "Little Girl Next Door."

Casey was asked whether it was true that the Mayor saw a private run of these films and edited and censored and revised them before they were shown.

Casey was further asked whether in his capacity as official city censor he had seen either of the films after their presentation was begun.

CASEY REFERS TO MAYOR.

To these three questions, which interested many people, Casey had nothing whatever to say.

"See the Mayor," he said. "Ask him."

Casey was asked to deny or affirm the reports. He shook his head. "See the Mayor," he repeated.

Mayor Curley had nothing to add to his statement of yesterday.

"I did it for a friend," he repeated. "And I'd do it again."

The "friend"—a political supporter—was named by the Mayor as Joseph M. Levenson, a stockholder and officer of the Boston Photoplay Company. Other officers of the company are Moe Mark, Edward A. Golden and John W. Lace.

Some of the interesting "inside facts" as to how "Where Are My Children?" was brought to Boston came to light today.

It appears that the State rights to the film were bought by a little group of men for about $7,000.

GAMBLED ON RIGHTS.

The same little group of local men gambled on the Pennsylvania rights to the film, taking it off the hands of the first buyers who were discouraged by their failure to secure permission to display the film in that State.

The local men believed they could overcome the . luctance of the Pennsylvania censors to allow the film to be shown.

So they bought the Pennsylvania rights at something like $18,000—perhaps less.

Just who these local men were is not known. Levenson was undoubtedly one of them. Levenson was a leader among them—so far as their dealings with the trade were concerned.

Levenson and his friends had the "good thing" all to themselves here, and hoped to have it in Pennsylvania.

So Levenson, the Mayor admits, went to his friend the Mayor and enlisted the Mayor's aid in the attempt to get the film into Pennsylvania.

Whether Levenson had known that the Mayor—as the Mayor says—would do his best to help any citizen get a film play into another state, does not appear.

The Mayor's views on such friendly assistance were presumably known to Levenson. Levenson may even have counted on the Mayor's friendship in his confident hope that he would be able to overcome the objections of the Philadelphia censors.

Anyway, Levenson went to the Mayor and asked Mayor Curley to see what he could do.

The Mayor, always willing—as he says—to "...nch a service for any citizen, agreed.

So he went to Washington, and "saw" Senator Penrose, and by and by the wheels began to turn and the new effort to get the film into Pennsylvania was begun.

Penrose says the Mayor said he had an interest in the film.

Mayor Curley says he had nothing but a friendly interest, no financial interest of any kind.

"I did it for my friend Levenson," he repeated. "And I'd do it again—for him or any other citizen."

It was stated today by several persons in the theatrical business that, for some time, there have been rumors circulated to the effect that Mr. Curley has a financial interest in the production.

For obvious reasons the men responsible for these statements do not care to have their names mentioned, but they are all responsible members of Boston's theatrical circle and men who would be the first to hear such talk.

Men in the show business in Boston point out as significant the fact that the Mayor and other members of the city Board of Censors did not pass judgment on the play before allowing it to run here.

In reply to Mayor Curley's statement to the effect that no complaints had been received about the play, and that no censorship had been requested, they point out the fact that the play was strongly condemned by the Rev. A. F. Roche of the Watertown Catholic Federation's Public Morals Committee.

They refer to the recent sentence of three years which was imposed on H. Van Cleek Allison for distributing birth control literature and then speak of the following advertisements of the photoplay, "Where Are My Children?" which appeared in the Boston papers:

"Do you believe in birth control? There are realistic reasons pictured for and against it in that daring photoplay—'Where Are My Children?'"

"Why do not the censors stop this daring photoplay? Is the question asked by people in every walk of life throughout New England. The answer is simple; because they have not yet been able to prevail against that great bar of justice, public opinion, represented by thousands who crowd this theatre."

Joseph M. Levenson, president of the Boston Photo Play Company, has extensive interest in the moving picture field. He lives at No. 287 Washington avenue, Chelsea. He is a member of the House of Representatives from the Fifth Suffolk District.

Levenson could not be located at his office in the Old South building or at his Summer home in Winthrop and it was stated that he had gone to Buffalo.

E. A. Golden, manager of the company which is producing the film at the Majestic, said: "Mayor Curley has no money in this company."

RELASCO GRIEVED.

David Belasco, owner of the play "Marie Odile," which Mayor Curley warned away from Boston, was quoted in New York dispatches today as saying:

"Needless to say it both surprised and grieved me when Mayor Curley and the other Boston censors prohibited my showing 'Marie Odile' in Boston on the grounds, as they alleged, that this beautiful, poetic and idyllic play was grossly immoral, unclean, and unfit for public presentation. 'Marie Odile' was one of the most beautiful plays that ever came into my possession or to any other producer. It was a perfect jewel of illusion, possessing as Dr. Frank Crane said, 'a story of human love in its utter intrinsic purity.'

"Dr. Crane further wrote in an editorial in the New York Globe at the time of the presentation of the play:

"'The play shows what consumate art can do, how it glorifies every base thing it touches, and exposes even the nudities of existence without shame because all flesh is submerged in supporting beauty.'

"Dr. Crane further wrote: 'A play like "Marie Odile" is worth more to the stage than a world of apologies.'

"I chose 'Marie Odile' primarily because of its great message of motherhood, and I would not have dreamed of producing this or any other play if there had been any immoral things to it.

"Mayor Curley's action in lobbying in Pennsylvania for permission to exhibit this film play, 'Where Are My Children?' does not surprise me, in the face of his action in regard to perhaps the most beautiful play ever presented on the American stage."

REPRESENTATIVE JOSEPH M. LEVENSON, the man for whom Mayor Curley says he lobbied for film.

LAWRENCE MAN HELD IN BLACKMAIL PLOT

Mrs. Frank Crocker was located in her home at 41 Bickerstaff street, Back Bay, and denied that her husband is in custody, claiming that he is nothing more than a material witness for the government.

Mrs. Crocker is a brunette and exceptionally good looking.

"My husband is not one of the blackmailers," she said; he is merely a witness for the government and he helped the authorities to locate some of the men wanted."

LOOK UP DONAHUE.

A man by the same name and who answers the same description resided in Lawrence several years ago and went from there to New York. It was reported. The Lawrence police today questioned several to determine the movements of Donahue after he left here. Secret Service agents are expected here to look up the record of Donahue while in Lawrence.

Philadelphia dispatches today said that William Butler, a leader of the gang of alleged blackmailers rounded up in Chicago on Sunday, and his brother, George Butler, would be given a hearing in Philadelphia charged with attempting to blackmail Mrs. Regina A. Klipper of that city and with "obstructing justice" by taking part in the kidnaping of Mrs. Klipper and her sequestration in Montreal, so that she could not testify against George Irwin, a member of the gang at his trial in Chicago.

A continuance was expected to be asked until Mrs. Klipper could return from Chicago.

HUNT RENDEZVOUS.

Two distinct hunts for another blackmailers' rendezvous were on in Chicago today.

Satisfied that the fashionable apartment which yielded seven arrests Saturday was merely a blind, both federal operatives and city detectives searched for a place where it is believed the members of the "syndicate" operated.

Suspicions that the blackmailers have another headquarters in Chicago were aroused when a close search of the Grand Boulevard apartment failed to reveal the two strongest weapons of the swindlers—their fake secret service badges and their fake warrants.

It was through these "official" mediums that the victim was usually persuaded to "come across" when trapped in a compromising position.

Mrs. Regina Klipper of Philadelphia, one of the many victims of the trust, was expected here today to aid in the identification of those already under arrest, and to corroborate the story told by Frank Crocker.

HUNT TWO MEMBERS OF GANG.

While the search for other headquarters was on, police and secret service operatives all over the Middle West were on the lookout for two members of the gang still at large—May Taub, said to be the wife of a St. Louis pickpocket, and George Irwin, whom Federal officers declare is one of the "brains" of the syndicate. Irwin also is said to be the husband of Mrs. Helen Evers, who is under arrest here.

On orders received it is understood from Washington a mask of secrecy concerning developments in the case was drawn today over the operations of the investigators. Hinton G. Clabaugh, head of the local bureau of the Department of Justice, who declared yesterday that the victims of the blackmailers would have to come out and help convict them, was uncommunicative about this angle of the case today.

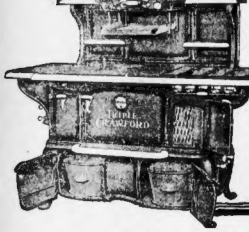
Hearth Style $29.00 and up

Here is a Wonderful New Range Using Two Fuels, —GAS and COAL

It has two separate and distinct ovens, one for coal, one for gas—both perfect.

The Gas oven of this newest Crawford is conveniently elevated which does away with bending over. It is fitted with the only safety lighter approved by the American Museum of Safety.

The new and clever gas broiler holds the food as near the flames as desired. It is adjusted without touching the pan and folds beneath the gas oven, out of the way, when not in use. This is a Crawford idea and a big help to better broiling.



There are five top burners of the new center-fire type, sanitary top gratings, concealed pipes and guarded cocks.

All Crawford Ranges have the wonderful single damper, which controls fire and oven heat with one motion of a knob to "kindle," "bake," or "check."

The interchangeable hods, furnished free, take care of ashes and coal.

FAIL TO SELL OLD POLICE STATION

Auctioneer Edward W. Foye today attempted to sell at public auction the old East Boston police station, situated on Meridian, Paris and Havre streets. The Council had set a minimum valuation, $12,000, and the auctioneer was unable to get a bid. The Council originally placed a value of $15,000 on the property, but lowered it when no offers were received.

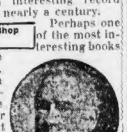
LOOKING BACKWARD 60 YEARS

An Interesting Bit of History Everybody Should Know

The Old Apothecary Shop Established in 1847

One of the interesting places in Lowell, Mass., is the old apothecary shop on Merrimack street, established in 1827. This location is still a drug store, although of course modernized in many departments. The old prescription books, however, have been preserved and form an interesting record covering nearly a century.

Perhaps one of the most interesting books is that of the year 1855. On one of the pages of this book, that dated June 9th, 1855, is written the original prescription for Father John's Medicine. This prescription was compounded for the Reverend Father John O'Brien at the old drug store on that date, and was so successful in treating Father John's ailment, which was a severe cold and throat trouble, that he recommended the medicine to his friends and parishioners. In going to the drug store and calling for the medicine, they always asked for Father John's Medicine, and in this way the medicine got its name and was advertised.



The Old Prescription Book

Father John's Medicine is a safe family remedy for colds, coughs, throat troubles, and as a tonic and body builder, because it does not contain opium, morphine, chloroform, and any other poisonous drugs, or alcohol, but is all pure, wholesome nourishment.—Advertisement.

HEAVY VOTE IN NEW YORK TODAY

By International News Service.

New York, Sept. 19.—Indications early today pointed to a heavy vote throughout the State in the direct primaries. The balloting places, open at 3 p. m., will close at 9 p. m. The biggest interest centres in the gubernatorial nominations of the Progressive party and the Independence League. Charles S. Whitman, the regular Republican nominee, and Judge Samuel Seabury, the Democratic candidate, both are candidates for the nominations of the smaller parties.

The outcome of the balloting by those two parties will do much to forecast which way the Progressives and Independents will vote in the November elections. The contest that is exciting the most interest is the one between William M. Calder and Robert Bacon, for the Republican nomination for United States Senator. Calder is the regular candidate while Bacon will be backed by the Independent voters within the Republican ranks.

William F. McCombs is opposed by Thomas F. Conway for the Senatorial nomination on the Democratic ticket, but McCombs is regarded as a certain winner.

Sharpers feel that Governor Whitman will have a walk-away in his race against William M. Bennett, who is opposing him for the Republican nomination for governor. The only other contest that is evoking interest is the one between Eugene M. Travis and James F. Hooker for State comptroller. Travis, it seems, will be renominated with many votes to spare.

FAILS TO PROVE DISCRIMINATION

Mrs. C. E. White, proprietress of a restaurant in East Boston, was upheld by Judge Dowd in the suit brought against her by Elijah H. Stewart, who asked $300 damages on the ground that he was refused service in her restaurant because he is a negro.

Witnesses for Mrs. White testified that Mrs. White had served negroes in the restaurant before, and that on this occasion Stewart was told there was no room at the time but that if he would wait he would be served.

FRIENDS RALLY TO DEFEND PASTOR

Friends of the Rev. C. M. Panunzio, pastor of the First Italian Church, on North street, declared that his recent arrest for loitering near the Shaw Monument on Boston Common was without warrant and without sense.

Rev. Mr. Panunzio, they maintain, is a man of the highest character and integrity, with a flawless record as a minister and missionary in the North End.

CRITICISED STATION 3.

In a letter to Police Commissioner O'Meara the Italian pastor pointed out what he believed to be a tendency on the part of some officers to treat with cruelty and barbarity non-English speaking people, who are not always guilty of crimes attributed to them, but unable to defend themselves.

He also criticized conditions at police station 3 on Joy street, where he was confined in a cell for nearly three hours while someone was being found to furnish bail for him.

In describing his treatment he said he was not allowed to communicate immediately with his friends, who would have come to his rescue as soon as they had been informed. He claimed to have been roughly handled on the Common, where he was waiting for a friend with whom he had an appointment.

Captain A. H. Peabody when seen at station 3 disclaimed any knowledge of what took place, as he was out at the time.

In telling of the rules of the police department the captain said:

POLICE HELP THOSE ARRESTED.

"We hold no prisoners here any longer than is sufficient to get bail. We do all in our power to facilitate matters and will send our men free of charge to any place in our precinct in order to inform friends who might go bail; in fact, we will do anything that does not involve expense."

Captain Peabody took a representative of the AMERICAN through the cells and prison corridors, where all floors and walls were found in a state of perfect cleanliness. The closets complained of are in each cell near the door and are flushed from without by an officer, who goes through the halls at least every half hour, according to the captain. The prisoner has no way of turning on water himself. It appears to be an old-fashioned system.

VENTILATION SCHEME.

Ventilation which was complained of by the incarcerated minister, who was in cell 17, is supposed to be furnished from a window immediately in front of the cell opening onto a court.

The sash was open a foot from the top. Air is drawn up through the cell into a square hole at the back and top. In this particular cell, however, as with three others, the holes had been covered over with paper or cloth. This, the captain explained, was for fumigation purposes. As the paper over the holes was the same color as the paint on the walls, it looked as though there had not been ventilation for some time. Captain Peabody thought differently, however, and was inclined to think that the cells had not been used since the closing of the ventilation pipes. The cells are above ground and open onto corridors with three windows. The cells themselves are dark as in old-fashioned prisons. The building is fifty years old.

PRAISE PANUNZIO.

In telling why the flushing system could not be different, Captain Peabody said: "It would be impossible to allow prisoners to control the water or have any apparatus in the cells they could injure or use to injure themselves. This is the only practical way I know of, but the prison is washed and scrubbed every day."

Charles Parkhurst and E. C. E. Dorion, editors of Zion's Herald, who know the Rev. Mr. Panunzio well, both vouched for his character with enthusiasm.

"He is a man of upright character and I have never heard one word against him. He graduated from Wesleyan University and later from Boston University. He had charge of a church in Amherst, and when he came to Boston I received several letters from Amherst professors who spoke in the highest terms of him. He took a pastorate in Malden, but was after called to the North End, where he is proving himself indispensable among the Italians, whom he helps in many ways. He is sometimes a witness for them in court, and again raises money to send them to school. We have absolute faith in him," was Dr. Parkhurst's testimony.

Been "Going It" Too Hard?

Lots of folks who are tired, cross, nervous, rheumatic and achy, are showing all the signs of early kidney trouble without realizing it. It's often the result of our great American fault—making one continual rush of work or pleasure without taking enough rest, fresh air, exercise or sleep. Such an attack isn't hard to get rid of—just give body and nerves a rest and help the kidneys get stronger. Try Doan's Kidney Pills. They have helped thousands of kidney sufferers. Don't wait. Chronic kidney disease is serious.

Boston Proof:

James F. McCarthy, 1 Medford Court, says: "My back was weak and lame, caused by my work. It was hard for me to bend over or lift. The kidney secretions were too frequent in passage and caused me to arise many times during the night. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from the Riker-Jaynes Co.'s Drug Store, relieved the trouble, strengthened my back and made my kidneys normal."

Here Is The Most Important Statement Ever Made by Kennedy's

And of the Utmost Interest to Every Man Within Reach of This Great Establishment

Starting twelve months ago before the unprecedented advance in the price of woolen fabrics had taken place and the scarcity of reliable dyestuffs had become acute, the Kennedy stores began placing orders with mills and manufacturers for cloth and clothing for this Fall season. These orders, amounting to more than two million dollars, were commented upon in the clothing trade as the largest ever placed by any organization.

More than 95% of these manufacturers stood by their orders and delivered the goods at the prices agreed upon. A small number—less than 5%—"welched" on their contracts because prices had gone up in the meanwhile.

Since we placed our orders, woolens have gone up like a skyrocket. For months, England has maintained a complete embargo on Australian wool. Dyes that formerly sold for 80c per pound are scarce at ten times that price. The market is flooded with inferior fabrics and colors. Old Kings Shoddy and Cotton are having the time of their lives, and manipulated fabrics are being made into suits and overcoats by the mile. This is going to be a season to "watch out."

Unusual as it may seem, these Kennedy Stores are not conducted altogether for the dollar, but more as a matter of pride—an ambition to build one of the greatest businesses in New England or the whole country, favorably known for its integrity and service—the fulfilling of an ideal. So all these preparations have been made with the end in view of doing the seemingly impossible, and we now announce that—

85% of our Fall goods will show no advance over last season, and the quality will be maintained

Everything that enters into clothing costs more—linings, trimmings, silks and labor. For all these we have had to pay increased prices. But we feel confident that the remarkable increase in the volume of business of these Kennedy Stores will offset the smaller profit.

This is a season to be more than ever careful in your clothes buying. The temptation to trade down in quality and tailoring is great. So wherever you go to fill your clothing needs, look well to the character of the house. It is all important. If you believe that the Live Store can do more for you than any other store can—or will—then come here. You will be warmly welcomed.

Twin Windup at Arena

Pal Moore-Britt Again

By RINGSIDE.

Doubtless the Armory A. A. members, meaning boxing lovers of Greater Boston, are going to see considerable of the survivor of tonight's battle at the Arena; Young Pal Moore of Memphis, Tenn., vs. Young Britt of New Bedford. It is understood to be on the cards for the winner to draw a championship booking at an early date, meaning that either "Kid" Williams of Baltimore or Johnny Ertle of St. Paul, twin-holders of the bantamweight title, will be brought on to be sent against the victor of tonight's clash.

Moore and Britt hooked up in a twelve-round battle, the distance they are to traverse tonight, and, at the end, there wasn't a whole lot to choose between them. Moore did have a winner's edge and thereby drew a most proper award from Larry Conley.

It was close, sizzling close, most of the way, but Young Pal rolled away from the young New Englander in the stretch run and thereby gained the award for himself.

Moore and Britt came in at 120 pounds, made at 6 o'clock, is their other tussle. That will also probably be the weight notch they will make this time. It's an easy figure for both boys, according to all reports.

BOTH ARE LITTLE FELLOWS.

While Britt has been coming in at 120 pounds all Summer, he has steadfastly claimed he can readily get down to the bantamweight limit and will do it the first time he is forced to make weight. As for Moore, he has always been arrayed with the bantams.

Britt is confident he is going over the plate a winner tonight. When he went against Moore two weeks ago, it was really his first important start in the game; the first time he had gone against a sure enough star and the first time he had stepped in a windup number in a big arena. He acquitted himself brilliantly.

Then followed his hurry-up kayo victory over Monte Attell at the Commercial A. C. Britt now considers himself as good as they come in his division and claims that this trip Moore won't find him a "green" workman at any stage of the route.

Moore, too, is out with the claim he will be bracketed. All Young Pal has accomplished in the past year or so is to gain ten-round victories over both Williams and Ertle in his home town, sporty Memphis; a fifteen-round triumph over Pete Herman, one-dizzy little toplinger, in New Orleans, and ten-round wins over "Dutch" Brandt and Terry McMartin among some other good Eastern boys.

EXPECTS PAL TO WIN.

Danny Goodman, Moore's manager, is preparing a decisive victory for his charge.

"No, I don't say Moore will succeed in stopping Britt, as the New England boy is no slouch, but Young Pal will be in infinitely better trim tonight than he was when he met Britt two weeks ago and I am confident he will run up a big early lead and hold it to the end. Moore hurt his hands a trifle in his bout with Brandt, which came three nights before, he went on with Britt at the Arena. This time Young Pal is fresh and I am sure the Boston fans are going to see him at his best."

Abe Attell, former king of the featherweights, and one of the fastest, cleverest and trickiest boxers Queensberry world ever owned, has been giving Moore quite a lot of his time of late and Attell wired the AMERICAN from New York last night stating that he expected to make the trip over with Goodman and Moore and would run Young Pal's corner.

TWO OF A KIND.

Tonight's second twelve-rounder, which brings together Terry Brooks, "king of the newsboys," and Joe Connelly of Charlestown, two of the undisputed hammersmiths of this section, is exciting principally for much interest in the Moore-Britt set-to. Brooks, the veteran miller of the two, has cleaned up practically every out-and-out battler hereabouts, as well as mussed up a lot of the New York and Philadelphia sluggers.

It's only when his vis-a-vis is a fast, artful workman Terry has his troubles. Last time he was boxing in the past eighteen months was the night he met Walter Mohr of Brooklyn at the now defunct Business Men's A. A. last Winter.

A few weeks ago Brooks showed enough "pep" in his work to get a draw with Walter Butler, although rolling the loquacious one to the betting.

PERT PUMMELING PARTY.

Tonight Brooks draws a battler after his own heart and the uncapped must happen with a vehement vengeance for the fans not to be treated to their premier pummeling party of the season.

Connelly is the same type of ring-ster as Brooks. It's sure to be a hard, rugged number, and, if pitably lacking in science, can be relied upon fairly oozing with wallooping.

The night's two battling favorites are Moore and Brooks.

Mish Murray has arrayed the usual two six-rounders. Tony Vatian, who generally pleases, will have to put with "Kid" Thomas of Lawrence, while Al Gerard is down to oppose counted for the remainder of the card.

Lady Teresa in Front of Field All the Way

Havre de Grace, Md., Sept. 19.—While the racing card lacked class, finishes in several of the events were exceedingly close and spirited. This was especially so in the closing number when Virginia W. just managed to nose out Orotund, with the favorite, Little England, running third.

The fourth race, the feature of the card, was easy for Lady Teresa, which showed her heels to her company all the way. Ninety Simplex ran second and St. Charlecte third.

Favorites won four of the seven races, while well supported horses accounted for the remainder of the card.

BROWN "GRIDDERS" GET BUSY IN HURRY

Providence, Sept. 19.—Thirty Brown football candidates reported at Andrews Field to Captain Farnum for the first football practice of the season. Coaches Robinson and Spracklin directed two workouts. The morning practice was light, but in the afternoon the work went with more gusto.

A score more candidates are expected today.

WOMAN SEES FIGHT IN GLOUCESTER RING

Gloucester, Sept. 19.—All Gloucester is asking today, who was the young woman reported to belong to the North Shore Summer colony, who, heavily veiled, saw last night's boxing bout between Frankie McManus of Philadelphia and Howard McRae of Cambridge at the Lenox A. C. She arrived just as the principals were on in the main bout and stayed for the entire battle. It was a particularly vicious fight, full of knockdowns, with McManus winning in twelve rounds.

O'LEARY AND MORAN TO MEET, IS REPORT

Although no announcement has been issued by the Armory A. A., it is pretty well understood that Johnnie O'Leary, the Seattle, Wash., lightweight, who is now making Buffalo his home, has been matched to meet Vic Moran, the New Orleans 133-pounder, in the main number on next Tuesday night's Arena bill.

NOW COAST IS AFTER WELSH-DUNDEE GO

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Baron Long of Los Angeles is out to get back into the boxing game and is the latest to go after Freddie Welsh-Johnny Dundee battle for the lightweight title. He has offered Welsh a $15,000 flat guarantee to meet the New York Italian on the Tijuana race course, near San Diego, New Year's Day.

NEW YORK RING TALK.

NEW YORK, Sept. 19.—Willie Ryan, the welterweight sensation from New Brunswick, N. J., is on the trail of Jack Britton. Ryan battles Joe Hyland at the Pioneer Sporting Club tomorrow night and seeks Britton as his next foe.

At the Broadway Sporting Club Johnny Harvey and Phil Bloom meet in a ten-round bout tonight. There will be a six-rounder set-to between Jake Brandt, brother of the famous "Dutch," and "Happy" Mahoney.

BILLY MISKE, the St. Paul middleweight, who boxes Jim Barry at the Clermont Avenue Rink in Brooklyn Thursday night, has just been signed to box Battling Levinsky at the same club October 12.

LAST NIGHT IN THE RING.

New York, Sept. 19.—Jim Healy, the Irish heavyweight, who has nine stretches knockouts to his credit, was knocked out by Jack Clifford of Long Island City in the third round at the Olympic A. C. Irving Margolies outpointed Jack Duffy.

New York, Sept. 19.—Sailor Dunbar Smith knocked out Chas. Hawkins, the colored heavyweight, in three rounds at the Clermont A. C., Brooklyn. Hawkins claimed a broken hand early in the fight.

Gloucester, Sept. 19.—Frankie McManus of Philadelphia got the decision of Howard McRae of Cambridge in their twelve-round bout. McRae was floored three times.

FOOTBALL BY ELECTRIC LIGHT

Line drawing of Stadium scene last night as Harvard players, coaches, newspaper men and others watched demonstration of gridiron game under powerful arc lights.

BIG GREEN SQUAD IN STIFF WORKOUT

Hanover, N. H., Sept. 19.—Dartmouth practice has started in earnest. With the return of Coach Cavanaugh a stiff twenty minutes scrimmage was ordered. Neither team was able to score. Dusenoit and Emery shone at tackling, and Sargent and Latman worked effectively in the seconds' backfield. Thielecher punted well.

Straight Game Is Again in Vogue at Old Eli

New Haven, Sept. 19.—Beginning Yale's third week of football practice the varsity and second elevens were driven through a forty-minute scrimmage drill in which the first team, using simple straight line plunges, tore a hole for small gains that netted three touchdowns.

On only two occasions were the second eleven players able to check the varsity progress. Bingham, Le Gore and Jacques scored the touchdowns. Bingham and Le Gore are former regulars, but Jacques, who was placed at full back only three days ago, has displayed rapid promise during his trial.

Smith, a substitute last season, was tried at quarterback, and Comerford, freshman captain last year, was at right end for the first time. Taft was back at left tackle, after a week's absence.

The second eleven were able to make first downs only once when they took the ball to the regulars' 30-yard line where they were held. Fullback Neville kicking a field goal on fourth down. Brink Thorne, captain in '96, joined the coaches.

Chase Increases Lead in Batting

HAL CHASE, veteran first baseman of the Cincinnati Reds and former Yankee, continues his good work at bat and is now leading the hitters of the National League with an average of .329, including games played yesterday. He has a margin of eleven points over Zack Wheat, the fence buster of the Dodgers.

Here is how the first four stand to date:

	At Bat.	Hits.	Ave.
Chase....	496	163	.329
Wheat....	529	168	.318
Hornsby..	464	144	.317
Daubert..	428	134	.313

In the American League Tris Speaker enjoyed an increase in his lead over Ty Cobb, though he did not play. Tyrus went up three times to face Elmer Myers, Cozzie Mack's young curver, and failed on each trip to hit the youngster safely. Ty accordingly dropped from his mark of .363 to .361.

Here is how the race between Tristrum and Tyrus stands to date:

	At Bat.	Hits.	Ave.
Speaker..	499	195	.390
Cobb.....	501	181	.361

Athlete Loomis Dangerously Ill in New York

New York, Sept. 19.—C. W. Loomis, one of the star members of the Boston A. A. relay team, who came to New York Saturday to take part in the games held that day in Newark, N. J., became ill that evening in his room at the Cumberland Hotel.

Dr. J. R. English of West Fifty-seventh street, who was called in, diagnosed the illness as appendicitis. As the condition of Loomis seemed serious, he was removed to the Post Graduate Hospital and will probably be operated upon today.

Loomis' mother is here with him.

HARVARD PERSONALS

TEN men reported to Coach Alfred Shrubb of the cross-country team. The coach gave the brief squad a short talk.

CAPTAIN CABOT paid a flying visit to crew quarters. He was mum on the coaching situation.

NO objection is being made to the use of Yale locks in keeping the Stadium free from prying eyes during secret practice.

PERCY WENDELL, famous as Harvard's "Human Bullet," was a Stadium visitor.

Harte Back with Squad

First Scrimmage Today

The first scrimmage between the varsity and second Harvard football teams will take place in the Stadium this afternoon behind barred gates. Coach Bob Guild has been preparing his second eleven for this romp since the division of the squad, and expects his crusaders to render a good account of themselves.

To get his players into giant-killing form, Guild has secured Fairchild, former Harvard quarterback; Parkinson, old time centre; Howard, an end, and Priest, a halfback, as coaches, and in addition will later have the expert services of Reggie Brown, Harvard's "scoutologist."

Brown is to direct the team in borrowed plays and give the varsity a chance to see if it can stop the formations which will later be used against it when the big games are on.

This afternoon's session is bound to be a sizzler, for it will be the last scrimmage but one before the contest with Colby, Saturday.

REGULARS FULL OF FIGHT.

The regulars are intent on proving to Coach Leary and his assistants that they have learned their lessons of the last few days, when at times some of them disported themselves on the gridiron like moving picture fashion models.

They will give the second team no quarter, and it is sure to be a tired crew that will limp to the showers when the final whistle blows.

Yesterday's session was the first of the star number twilderings this Fall. Coach Leary presided, and his fellow coaches at the high table were Mal Logan, Frank O'Brien, Bob Fisher, Charley Parkinson, Don Watson, Darrin Parmenter, Charley Brickley (loaned for the occasion), and Wink Rollins.

The squad was augmented by the arrival of Dick Harte, varsity right end last Fall, and Mose Taylor, substitute guard, who played the greater part of last year's Yale game.

CANER REPORTS TOMORROW.

Tennis fever responsible for Harte's late arrival, for he and Captain Caner were busy bringing the intercollegiate championship back to Harvard. Caner, who is also a football player, his position being tackle, will report tomorrow.

Taylor has been in the West, having lingered in California, after finishing his studies as a member of the Harvard geological class, which spent the Summer about the Rockies.

Coach Leary lost little time putting the pair to work, although he let Harte down light, as the slim Philadelphian is already trained pretty fine because of his long season of tennis. Harte and Likes alternated at left end. Dick showed on the forward pass player he has lost none of his baseball cunning in catching long chucks.

A dummy scrimmage lasting an hour served to keep everyone keyed to a fighting pitch. The varsity and substitute eleven were lined up, but in the subsequent scrimmage tackling was barred. The backs walked through most of their plays.

The coaches paid most of their attention to straightening the Yushline defence, and bearing on each member of the interference his correct position on the different plays.

Brickley was again on the field, and drilled Gardner, Felton, Flower and Casey in drop-kicking.

Tom Enwright has reached Harvard prepared to take the two examinations necessary to put him back in good standing. So, after all, the noted back may be one of the heroes of the Yale and Princeton battles.

Football By Arc Light Successful

Coach Leary, Captain Dadmun, Coach Bob Guild of the Crimson eleven, and Fred W. Moore, graduate manager of the Harvard A. A. were among the spectators who watched a demonstration of lighting the Stadium for night practice last night, when eleven lamps ranging in power from 250 to 1,500 watts were thrown on the field, individually and collectively.

The experiment was pronounced a success, the field being illuminated well enough to allow signal drill, the tossing of forward passes, and some fairly high punts, in each instance these on hand having little trouble in following the flight of the ball.

The light, which was one-fourth the intensity it is to be when the entire top of the Stadium is lighted, proved amply adequate for last night's demonstration. One lamp of 500 watts, which is now in its second year in use on the University of Michigan football field, provided a very bright light, the glare of which its sponsors say can be softened down by a sandblasted lens, such as the Wolverine management employs.

Dr. Louis Bell, an eminent authority on lighting, conducted the experiments, and W. Joseph Littlefield, '16, who first called the attention of the Harvard authorities to the feasibility of the scheme, being an electrical wizard himself, was an honored guest at the exhibition.

Brickley Drills B. C. at Stiff Pace

Coach Brickley alternated yesterday with four squads of B. C. football men who went through the preliminary training last week. He drilled them at a stiffer pace than is usually seen so early in the season, and the men, literally dripping buckets of sweat, were made to feel that the business of whipping the team into shape had begun in earnest.

Bob Fowler took a bunch of fresh recruits for the first session and gave them plenty of work in dodging and waddling up and down the field.

Vin Murray, former center, and Curry of last year's backfield, were among the promising looking "vets" who made their "debut" appearance of the season in togs today. Murphy, Carr and Ostridge were also among those lounging up for the first time.

Brickley gave an extra session after the team had gone in to Townbridge, Fitzgerald and Fitzpatrick in punting and kicking drops. It is evident that he is on the alert for a "Brickley, Jr." in the booting line. Fitzpatrick looks especially likely in this respect, Brickley, himself, is authority for the prophecy that he is destined to be a phenomenal kicker.

EDDY MAY BE SUB PUNTER FOR TIGERS

Lake Minnewaska, N. Y., Sept. 19.—Jack Eddy, a substitute halfback of last year's eleven, is showing up well in the Tigers' preliminary practice, and from present indications a permanent berth will have to be found somewhere behind the line for him.

The coaches have him working at quarterback at the present time, but he carries the ball so well that he will probably be shifted to a halfback position before the practice progresses much further. Eddy has also been kicking well and will probably do the punting for the team this year if anything happens to Driggs. The latter has been hoisting the ball in midseason form, averaging about sixty yards on all of his kicks.

WILLIAMS' COACH SEES "COME BACK"

Williamstown, Sept. 19.—Coach Brooks says that there is strong evidence of a "come-back" this season for Williams football. Among the men who are eligible for the first time this year, Smith at end and Clifford at quarter show promise. The following men, who graduated in the Spring, will be missed from the lineup: Plants, end; Garfield, tackle, Brown, tackle, and Overton, Tompkins and Wright, backs.

BARRETT ON PRO-ELEVEN

Pittsburgh, Sept. 19.—Charley Barrett, all-American quarterback at Cornell last year, has signed to play on a professional eleven of former college stars, which will take the field here this Fall.

THE PINCH HITTER.

It is easy enough for an athlete
To hit when the game is a cinch,
But the player worth while
Comes to bat with a smile
And wallops the ball in a pinch.

A .300 hitter who cannot hit in a pinch is almost as useful as an iceberg in the Arctic Ocean.

Joe Mandot, we are told, does not take his work seriously. And yet, the walk he got from Frankie Russell was no joke.

It is also reported that Mr. Weeghman will take his players abroad if they win the pennant. So will Garry Herrmann.

Cards in Windup Here

Braves on the Way Up

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

Having nothing else to do the Braves will, in the natural course of events, step out on the greensward this afternoon and trounce the Cards in the final session between the two clubs this year. This trouncing stuff comes naturally, for appreciating that they have to win all of seventeen or eighteen more games, the Stallings stalwarts don't intend to allow the Huggins slumberers to stand in their way.

To accomplish his purpose Manager Stallings contemplates shunting either Pat Ragan or Art Nehf onto the firing line, and from the curbing it appears as though "Red" Ames would get the job of the Cards. Inasmuch as Hammering Hennery Gowdy's throat isn't as well as he would like to have it he'll probably rest again today. That means that Earl Blackburn, who's chasing Hammering Hennery hard for swat honors, will be on the job back of the plate.

Just after the pantming yesterday we heard of something Garry Herrmann did which only served to heap coals on the fires that rage within the Stallings system. Garry wired to inform George that he might have the choice of some players whom Stallings' pal, Connie Mack, had turned down. If that isn't rubbing it in we hardly know what to call it. Stallings contemplates having a sure pennant winner next year.

HOW COULD YOU, GARRY!

He can't see how he's going to achieve that end by grabbing up anything that the crestfallen Macks turn loose. If Connie can't see a player on the entire Indianapolis club whom he'd take, then its a cinch Stallings wouldn't take the whole club and the park as well.

Garry Herrmann might have known better than to do so rash a thing as even send the telegram. Stallings long since got through running a kindergarten.

Yesterday's win for the Braves proved of some benefit to them in the race, for the Robins split even in a twin bill with the Reds. Thus the Braves advanced half a game on the leaders, while holding the same distance back of the Phillies as heretofore. With any sort of luck at all they should experience little difficulty in getting up closer before this week is over.

While on the subject of Philadelphia winning games it might be well to observe that peculiar happenings are being noted in that city. For example Tinker has sent a number of youngsters into the fray. That in itself looks queer, for one would think that for the sake of making the fight close between the three leaders "Chicago Joe" would send his best lineup in. Of course all hands can appreciate that he hasn't a particularly strong catching staff to rely on just now.

CUB WIN LOOKED FOR.

According to all laws of average and figuring the Cubs should land as least one of the games they play in Quakertown. There can be no reason for them dropping them all. Consequently we sit back today and contemplate a Cub win with the resultant Philadelphia loss. Having always considered Chrissy Mathewson among the squarest men in baseball we feel certain "Big Six" will do his best to hand another game in Brooklyn.

Fred Toney, who looks like one of the niftiest chuckers in the league, figured in the tie game at Ebbets Field Saturday. He's had a couple of days' rest now and should be able to be back at the Robins today. And if Toney has one of his good starts there's no reason why he shouldn't be able to stop the Robins as well as Elmer Knetzer, who beat them yesterday. Knetzer helped his old mates out considerably by the win.

That hitting spree which the Braves started on last week was sustained yesterday. But despite the many stout whacks they gathered in the Braves could score but twice. Possibly the sleepy surroundings, that is to say the Cards, made them a trifle too slow on the bases. The club had an abundance of pepper and George Tyler had one of those rare days of his. When Tyler has a rare day there's nothing to stop him at all.

ALLEN READY SOON.

From the rooming place of Jawn J. Evers the word came that the pain in his arm was more or less bothersome yesterday. That fact didn't discourage him in the least, however, for he understands that the pain is always more severe just before the trouble finally leaves one. Johnny is still optimistic of beating the trouble and is mighty hopeful of getting back into the fun before the season closes.

"Long Tom" Hughes had the dressing taken off his injured hand yesterday and Dr. Whalen's examination revealed that the bone was knitting quite properly. However, it will be quite some time now before Hughes is able to make free use of the injured hand. A new dressing was put on and nature will be allowed to continue her course.

Frank Allen was at the park and in uniform. He will be ready to pitch again in a few days.

BRAVES NOTES

THE last Braves-Cardinals clash at 3:15 p. m. The Stallings outfit is capable of closing up the series and thus avenging the pair of defeats they suffered at the hands of the bunch back in August.

DESPITE the fact that the same frown is to be seen on Robert Maxwell's face everytime the ball with his old-time skill, Yesterday he pointed out a pair of stars. Both hurlers on his hitting averages should go up a bit before the season ends.

EARL BLACKBURN would be done for the season now were it not for the fact that Gowdy and Tragresser were injured at about the same time. As it is, Blackie is working quite regularly. Furthermore, he's counting the ball with a vengeance. It was indeed fortunate for Stallings he had a string on reliable a player.

W. JERMAIN MARANVILLE continues to be one of the most valuable players in the game. From time to time Manager Stallings recalls the fact that the Rabbit was the leading base stiffener and pilferer of the season on two Boston clubs. That honor is retained despite his recent accident and subsequent layoff. Maranville is also locked with Harry Hooper as the city's best run-getters.

THE scoreboard announcement of the free Red Sox run was the signal for a lot of cheering. Many of the pity fans couldn't have been informed of the happy happenings in Detroit.

PRESIDENT HATCHTON saw his first game since before he headed for Cincinnati and the big draft. Needless to state the Braves won was a source of considerable pleasure to Hatch and his recently companion, Tom Stevens.

IT seems strange not to observe Miller Huggins as the Red Sox pilot these days. Whereas he hasn't played in the city this season, he has heretofore spent much time on the coaching lines. Now little Miller spends the minutes on the bench. Maybe in another year he'll shake the uniform for civilian clothing.

CHRISTY MATHEWSON and his pack comes to town for their last series tomorrow. Matty's aches haven't been overburdensome to the locals this year and Stallings hopes to climb through beating them.

$3,000 STAKE GOES TO MISS HARRIS M.

Columbus, Ohio, Sept. 19.—The 2:08 pacers for the $3,000 stake made a great battle at the opening of the Grand Circuit meet. The Indianapolis filly, Miss Harriet M., won, while Gayle Abbe more second and Roan Hal, the favorite, third.

The Real Lady easily won the $2,000 junior division of the Horse Review Futurity in straight heats. She was an odds-on choice. McCloskey landed the 2:11 trot in straight heats.

HONORS WON BY RED SOX.

The Red Sox-White Sox series ended, 14-8, in favor of the Champions.

DODGERS' LEAD IN DANGER

Phillies Can Pass by Robinson Clan Today if Certain Events Come to Pass.

By JOHN W. MORAN, JR.

In the National League matters continue about the same. Brooklyn continues in the lead but can be passed today provided they lose while the Phillies win. At the same time the Braves, by winning while the Phillies are losing, can crawl up to within a very few points of second position. While this race isn't quite so close as is that in the American circuit, it is nevertheless fully as interesting.

Today the standings of the three top teams in each league are as follows:

AMERICAN LEAGUE.

	W.	L.	P.C.
Red Sox	81	50	.579
Tigers	83	61	.576
White Sox	81	62	.566

NATIONAL LEAGUE.

	W.	L.	P.C.
Robins	82	55	.599
Phillies	80	53	.601
Braves	77	55	.583

The figures thus show the Red Sox to be but three points in front of the Tygers, or less than half a game, and nine points and about a game ahead of the Comiskey entrants. In the National League the "Robins" are a game better off than the Phillies and two and a half games ahead of the Braves. Single games prevail in all cities where the big fights are being staged.

If the Braves land the game from St. Louis this afternoon and the Cubs defeat Philadelphia, then the Boston entrants will be virtually tied for second place, though they will be two percentage points back of the Putmorans. If the Robins lose the local entrants will be but a game and a half back.

HEINIE WAGNER SET DOWN WITH GAINER

Detroit, Sept. 19.—The Red Sox will be without the services of Heinie Wagner until the last game in the series here, as well as Del Gainer. Both Red Sox players have drawn three-day suspensions from President Johnson of the American League for their run-in with Umpire Connolly in Sunday's game in Chicago.

PITTSBURGH FEDS ONLY OWE $173,044

Pittsburgh, Sept. 19.—A voluntary petition in bankruptcy was filed by the Exposition Park Association, which controlled the (Pittsburgh Federal League) club before it disbanded last Fall.

According to the petition, the indebtedness of the association amounts to $173,044.

PLANT REMEMBERS E. L. FLAG WINNERS

New London, Ct., Sept. 19.—Manager Gene McCann and his Tri-State League champions were banqueted by a big party of local admirers at the Mohican Hotel last night. Each member of the team, as well as McCann, was presented with a personal check by Commodore Morton F. Plant, owner of the club.

JIMMY VIOX BALKS ON GOING TO COAST

Pittsburgh, Sept. 19.—Jimmy Viox, former Pirate second baseman, released by Pittsburgh and then released to Los Angeles, has returned to Pittsburgh and announces he will quit baseball rather than play on the Coast. Viox says he will spend his future on his farm near Lexington, Ky.

BRAVES PASS UP ROOKIE.

Manager Stallings of the Braves has cancelled his draft on Outfielder McCandless of the Dallas (Texas League) club.

Hubbell Is Hope of Harvard in Title Tourney

Pittsburgh, Sept. 19.—The intercollegiate individual golf championship opened on the links of the Oakmont Country Club, but after the qualifying and the first match play round had been completed only eight players, from three of the eight colleges and universities originally represented, remained.

Princeton has four players surviving, Davidson Herron, D. C. Cockran, Walter Parker, Jr., and Howard Maxwell, Jr.; Illinois, three, Captain C. L. Weems, John Simpson and J. N. Mc-Donald, and Harvard, one, J. W. Hubbell. Herron led the field, with a score of 68.

The surprise of the day was the elimination of Frank Blossom, Yale, the present title holder, by Percy Parker, Jr., Princeton, in the first eliminating round. Parker won his match, 3 and 1.

HOT LINERS

By FRANK G. MENKE.

The American League race has again changed. The Red Sox are back in the lead as a result of defeating the White Sox in the final game, while the Tigers' defeat by the Athletics sent them back to second place.

* * *

Today the real fight for first place begins when the Tigers-Red Sox clash in Detroit. If the Red Sox can win a majority of the contests they will be in a position to keep out in front for the rest of the season.

* * *

Should the Tigers trim the Boston bunch it would mean that the Detroits would have a good chance to cop.

* * *

While the Boston-Detroit clash is on the White Sox can improve their position by trimming the Athletics.

* * *

The next three days will either bunch the trio or give one team a flying start for the final drive.

The Dodgers lost half a game when they split a double-header with the Reds while the Phillies and Braves were winning their combats. As a result the Dodgers only lead the Phillies by a game now.

President Prout of New England Division Assails Lill, Maccabe and Babb at Annual Meeting

Stating in no uncertain language that Alfred J. Lill, Joseph B. Maccabe and Edward E. Babb, former presidents of the National A. A. A. U., greatly misrepresented New England sentiment and supplementing this with a plea for economy, President William C. Prout of the New England division at the annual meeting of the New England A. A. A. U., at the Revere House, carried his motion that no appropriation be made to pay the expenses of those honorary delegates to the next national convention.

President Prout met with spirited opposition, but the fact that he was supported in his contention that the past national presidents failed to cooperate with the regular delegates in advocating measures beneficial to New England interests, swung the majority in favor of the resolution.

Officers elected were: President, William C. Prout, vice-president, Major Frank H. Briggs; secretary and treasurer, J. Frank Facey; handicapper, P. C. Meifath; honorary delegates, Major Frank H. Briggs, Colonel George H. Billings, Richard Adler and Edward L. Hopkins. Delegates to the national convention elected were M. F. Winston, B. H. Osburn, Joseph F. Conway, Richard M. Walsh and Edward Walsh; alternates, Leo A. Johnson, S. J. Mahady and Richard Adler.

Twenty-six clubs were represented. New clubs admitted to the association were Hopkinton A. A., St. Philips A. A.; Anawan Club of Taunton and Taunton A. C.

BOARD OF CONTROL FOR ELI ATHLETICS

New Haven, Ct., Sept. 19.—The Yale Corporation has formally approved a plan whereby all athletic activities will be governed by an organization to be known as the Board of Control. The board will consist of two members of the college faculty, two members of the scientific school faculty, five graduates of the university and eight more members to be chosen by the corporation annually from the alumni or undergraduates, in its discretion.

The treasurer of the university reported the receipt of payments of gifts and bequests since the commencement meeting of $717,913.23.

MIKE BRADY LANDS PUDGY END OF PURSE

Worcester, Sept. 19 — Mike Brady, Oakley Country Club, landed first honors in the Professional Golfers' Association of America tournament, which was played for New England members on the Worcester Country Club course, with a card of 147 for the thirty-six holes.

Ed Towne, Oxford Country Club, finished second with 151, and Louis Tellier of Brookline won third money in a play-off with George Gordon, Wasamsisett Country Club, and his brother.

WRIGHT BEATS CHASE.

Brockton, Sept. 19. — Fred Wright, Abbotsville, junior State golf champion, defeated A. J. Chase, Brockton Country Club, in their play-off for the best gross in the open tournament, 3 and 1. The finals are set for this afternoon.

DAY NEW PILOT OF L. H.

Lexington High opens its football season Friday afternoon when it entertains Brookline High. Halfback George Day has succeeded Stuart M. Weatherhead as captain.

TWOMBLEY NOW REDLEG.

Cincinnati, Sept. 19. — The Cincinnati club has purchased Outfielder Twombley and Infielder Kopf from the Baltimore (International League) club.

Red Sox in "Acid Test" Series With Tigers On

extra games which the Carrigan crew has yet to play.

Boston must play three more games than Chicago and four more than Detroit before the season ends, and the final three games will be with the Athletics in Boston.

If the Red Sox win two games here they will leave town with the league standings, Boston .586, Chicago .575 and Detroit .571, granting that the White Sox make a clean sweep with the Mackmen.

If the Red Sox win only one game they will leave Detroit with the standings thusly: Detroit .578, Chicago .575 and Boston .573.

Should Detroit make a clean sweep the standings will be: Detroit .585, Chicago .575 and Boston .566.

ONLY FEAR CLEAN SWEEP.

Thus it is seen that only such a calamity here can so drop the Bostonians that their chances can cause despair. Incidentally, cleaning up a three-game series with Boston is something the Tygers have not been able to do in, lo, these many years.

Should Boston be able to take all three games there would be nothing to fear in the race but the Eastern entry hereafter, for the White Sox were effectually squelched over the week-end.

Carl Mays was not pitched at Chicago and probably will start here today. If Manager Jennings carries out his morning plan he will pitch George Dauss, the little right-hander who has been "plazed" to the Red Sox ever since he came to the Big Show.

Dauss has not had much of a season, sadly lacking control, and there is no guarantee he will pitch a good game. Jennings may not even work him, sending in Billy James instead.

Throughout the remainder of the series it is probable the Detroit fling-slinger, Harry Coveleskie, the star of the staff.

Carrigan's program provides for the working of Ruth tomorrow and Leonard Thursday.

VITT OUT FOR TIGERS.

Both clubs are crippled for the series. The Red Sox have been without the services of Barry for several weeks and they have missed him very much.

Oscar Vitt, the Tygers' crack third baseman, also is on the hospital list with a wrist that was badly bruised by one of Joe Bush's swift shoots Saturday. He could not play yesterday and, while he may attempt to get in this afternoon, it is certain his throwing will be very lame. Otherwise both clubs are in good physical condition, except for a bad foot possessed by Larry Gardner, and a similar wound claimed by Oscar Stanage, who is not likely to work. It is expected that "Black" Spencer will catch all the games.

One Duffy Lewis was in particularly excellent humor as the Red Sox came into town this morning. It was Duffy and his wallop that placed the Red Sox on the winning side in yesterday's farewell combat in Chicago, 4-3.

LEWIS HERO OF GAME.

Four times did the left fielder face the White Sox pitchers and four times did he deliver safe hits. Two of them were doubles and, save for Lewis' punch, the World's Champions would have scored but one run and would have been defeated.

Lewis scored the first run credited to the Red Sox; it was his double that drove in two more in the fifth, in fact. It was Duffy and his punch that triumphed in every crisis.

President Lannin is here with his team, but he is not as talkative as he was in Chicago when he made the declaration, the umpiring was too much for him and that if his club failed to win the pennant he would retire from the game.

Two successive victories gave Mr. Lannin a brighter view of life and baseball in particular, with the result that he just smiled and kept mum when asked for additional details looking toward his retirement from the national pastime.

LOUIS VERSALE came to New York shortly after the outbreak of the great European war. He brought with him letters of introduction from several Frenchmen of note. At the time no one paid any heed to the fact that all these men were at the front and that there was no way of verifying their letters.

Versale danced well, talked well, had plenty of money. He was dapper and good looking in a romantic way which appealed vividly to the imagination of American girls.

American men have a way of dismissing the possible charm of foreigners very cavalierly. They forget that in the more placid existence of the Old World, where men are not so furiously driven by the forces of ambition as they are in America, the average man adds to his warmer blood and more cultured imagination a wonderful leisure for cultivating the fine art of lovemaking.

Versale laid siege to numberless New York girls—and when finally his attention focussed themselves on Martha Ainsley she was first flattered and then almost responsive. He was new and different—being made love to by him was an adventure.

Robert Wells she had known all her life. Louis Versale had the charm of the unexpected. The girl felt that it was rather a triumph to have him devote himself to her. And so inevitably it came to pass that she mistook her excitement for emotion.

Routed by the Enemy

When Robert Wells came into his apartment and found Jimmy there in possession of the place and of the letter which Mr. Wells had written to me, he had just come from a complete rout at the hands of the enemy.

After their ride in the park Martha had yielded to her genuine and deep-rooted feeling. She had always cared for Bob and the strong vital tide of her feeling had all but swept her into his arms when the black-eyed maid Nita announced, "Mr. Versale."

Bob took his leave—without succeeding in taking Martha's heart, too. And the girl was left to meet the untrammeled and violent Southern lovemaking of Louis Versale.

The girl knew that her parents had rather set their hearts on her marrying Bob. That did his cause very little good. Everything was too simple and easy—for obvious—she could not feel that there was any real romance in a matter-of-course love affair with Bob Wells as the hero.

And so when Versale covered her face and throat with quick, tempestuous kisses and made breathless vows of his uncontrollable love for her his burning desire to possess her for his own—something of the primitive there is in almost every girl's nature leaped into flame.

A Bold Proposal

Martha looked into Versale's smouldering eyes and she felt her blood surging through her with a certain wildness she had never before known. She found herself trembling with an emotion which she almost resented. But she was not strong enough to resist it.

She had a mixed-up inspiration that this was real love and that her deep and tender affection for Bob was just a sister's fondness for a dear older brother.

"You will marry me, cherie? I can't wait any longer—I can't bear all the formal nonsense of asking your father for your hand. I want you, Martha—want you so. Won't you come with me now—soon? You will elope with me from the ball tomorrow night?"

"No—no. I mustn't. Mother and father wouldn't"—protested Martha weakly.

But Versale caught her in arms which tightened about her with a masterful strength that swayed her strangely. The girl tried again to protest, but found herself suddenly acquiescent—suddenly ready to go—anywhere, so it was with him.

When she got to her own room doubt assailed her. It wasn't quite fair to Bob. It wasn't fair to her parents either. Martha half determined to telephone Versale and tell him that she had changed her mind. Then Nita came in to dress her for dinner, and the maid began discussing Martha's suitors with that informal intimacy our democratic land often permits between mistress and servant.

Bob Wells leaves his fiancee, Martha Ainsley, to the blandishments of Louis Versale.

"Oh, mademoiselle—Mr. Versale, he is mad about you. I could see that when I let him out. His eyes they burn. He is romantic, a real lover. My countrymen they know how to make love. They are not cold, like your American business man."

Martha surveyed the girl dreamily. And the maid went on with her chatter as she brushed her mistress' long, fair hair.

"Mr. Versale he come from a wonderful family—I think sometimes he must be here on an important—what you call diplomatic"——

Martha laughed. "Diplomatic mission, Nita?"

Nita smiled. "Yes, Mademoiselle. I think so. His family is very brave—and I think he would be fighting in the war only perhaps he can serve France better here."

Martha's heart expanded with the feeling of being on the edge of wonderful things. Versale was always very quiet and reticent when it came to discussing his affairs. He had told her once that it was a great grief to him that he could not be serving his country on the firing line. Suddenly the girl remembered the laughing way he had ended his confidences with an attempt at quotation: "They also serve who only stand and wait."

Nita's words fell on fallow ground. There are a great many girls who find, the men they love more desirable when anyone else—however unimportant and negligible that anyone else may be—praises them.

A Wonderful Opportunity

Martha determined that she was having a wonderful opportunity for thrills and glow and romance and that if she missed this opportunity to go with a man like Louis Versale, a man in speaking of whom even her prim little maid was awestruck, she would be missing her chance at the great adventure.

A few minutes later Bob Wells telephoned and asked if he might have two invitations for the ball the following night. Martha promptly acquiesced. Giving Bob two invitations to the ball seemed rather imperfect consolation for the blow she was going to deal him at the ball.

Martha felt that she ought to give him almost anything he asked for—and so when he suggested that he'd come over that evening and get the invitations and that they might run down to one of the roofs and practice a few steps so as to cover themselves with glory and honor at the masquerade, she readily acquiesced.

To herself she said, "Any little thing I can do to make Bob happy now I ought to do—because the one gift he wants I'm going to refuse him!"

But it did not occur to Miss Martha Ainsley that the person she was about to deprive of a great gift was herself. That she was exchanging love for excitement and the kind of love needed for the unknown and untested, her youth did not stop to consider.

Martha was not the first girl who gally made ready to sell her birthright for a mess of pottage—nor the first who had the gift of love and prepared to throw it away. And whenever I think of Martha Ainsley's romance I remember sadly that she isn't the last girl who is going to set about deliberately to ruin her own chances of happiness.

Their Married Life

Warren Owns Up and Helen Takes a High Hand

Copyright, 1916, International News Service.

Helen's understanding with Ned Burns had not made her feel much better, and she hated to face the others, who were all on the porch when she and Ned rounded the corner. Frances was not there, but Lola Wilcox was sitting on the rail swinging one foot and talking to Dan Benedict. Warren was alone on one corner of the veranda, smoking.

Helen's heart leaped delightedly as she saw him. He looked moody, and the fact that her plan had worked so well raised Helen's spirits again. She decided, womanlike, now that she was winning, to keep up the game a little bit longer.

"Where have you people been?" asked Bubbie, shaking Warren playfully at Helen. It was Bubbie's private opinion, and she had told Tom the same just before dinner, that there was some kind of an affair between Helen and that Burns man.

"Nonsense." Tom had rejoined; "Helen isn't that kind."

"Oh, Tom; don't be absurd," Bubbie said, laughing, "of course she isn't. I know Helen. But I think he is crazy about her. Perhaps Helen is flirting a little bit for a change. Warren has been flirting with Lola."

"I don't like that, either," good-natured Tom Bell said, uneasily. "Let a man stick to his own wife, I don't believe in this promiscuous flirting."

"But Lola is the most fascinating thing don't you think, Tom? I know she said that thing about the accident on purpose this afternoon; but the men just can't resist her."

"That's all right, but I don't approve of her. Her morals are entirely too easy. I like Helen, too, and I don't like to see her unhappy."

The conversation had ended there, but Bubbie scrutinized Helen closely as she came into the light of the porch and blinked a little.

"We had the nicest walk," she said nonchalantly, sinking into a chair. "Jack, when do you expect Anne? Aren't you getting nervous, now that the wedding is so near?"

Anne Redding had decided to be married quietly in town, as it was impossible for Jack to take the time to go West.

Helen was steadfastly ignoring Warren, who had turned and was looking at her steadily. Her heart was thumping. She wondered what Warren would have to say to her when they finally went upstairs.

WARREN QUESTIONS

Some one already proposed bridge and Lola Wilcox attempted to draw Warren into it. Helen expected that he would consent and was surprised when he refused almost brusquely.

"You will play with me, won't you, Helen?" Ned queried.

"I?" said Helen, stifling a yawn. "Why, yes, of course." She looked at Warren under her lashes as she spoke, but he disappeared into the house, and Helen wondered where he had gone. They played till late, and when Helen finally went upstairs Warren was nowhere to be seen.

As she opened the door of her room he turned from the window where he had been standing, fully dressed. Helen, snapping on the lights suddenly, met his look direct-ly, and for a moment they looked at each other. Then Helen turned carelessly away, with a gay little tune.

"What's the use of acting this way?" Warren began testily.

"And what about me?" interrupted Helen.

It was Warren's turn to look surprised.

"I mean it," Helen continued, "you can't expect to do the things you have done lately, Warren, and not have the tables turned. In the future, if you find it necessary to have night automobile rides with other women, you can count me out of your life, because I am finished."

A BOLD STAND.

Helen was making a bold front, but inwardly she was miserable. What if Warren should take her at her word. She never could bear it if the time came when she would have to do without him.

"Helen, I am sorry, will you believe me when I say so? I am sorry, dear. I wish I hadn't done that fool thing. I have been wanting to tell you ever since, but I dreaded it somehow."

Helen did not reply, but she stole a glance at Warren and noted the expression of real contrition on his face. Were things going to come all right for her after all?

"You know," she burst out finally, "that Ned Burns means nothing to me, but I want you to understand that in the future I shall do just as you do." And Helen met Warren's eyes, her own full of——

The time would come, and that soon, when she would be the same old Helen. But for once she was prepared to stand for her rights.

Mrs. Black's Badge

Mrs. Black was an ardent worker in the temperance society, which was to meet that afternoon, she dressed hurriedly and came downstairs panting.

"Lizzie," she called to the maid, from upstairs, and yet my temperance badge. I have forgotten it. It has a blue ribbon with gold letters on it."

"Yes, ma'am, I know it well," said Lizzie. Lizzie could not read, but she knew a blue ribbon with gold letters when she saw it, and had no trouble in locating it and fastening it on the dress of her mistress.

Mrs. Black was too busy greeting her friends to note that they smiled broadly when they looked at her. When the family was assembled at tea, Mrs. Black entered, and was received with laughter by her children, who made her look at her badge then for the first time.

Snail Eaters and Snails

A Chance for Us to Follow in the Lead of the French

By GARRETT P. SERVISS.

Snails have been suggested as substitutes for oysters. It is averred that they form an equally nutritious food. Statistics are given which show that Paris—and that not when in a state of siege, except by friendly visitors—sometimes consumes fifty tons of snails, or about 200,000,000 individual snails, in a season. I do not guarantee the accuracy of this statement, but I do know that Paris eats snails and likes them.

They are eaten, and liked, more or less, all over France and Italy, and are raised for food in "escargatories," a word based on the French name for snails, "escargot." The ancient Romans, who certainly had delicate and expensive tastes in food, were great snail eaters, and they probably introduced the custom into such of their colonies and dependencies as took kindly to it.

The Journal of the American Medical Association is credited with the suggestion that, in these times of high prices for food, snails ought not to be neglected. The fact is that they have not been introduced altogether in this country. To a small extent snails are imported from France for use in American kitchens where French cookery is practiced.

But instead of importing them they could be raised here, and some are raised in California.

There would be no difficulty about obtaining the snails if a demand for them existed. But, for most Americans, it would first be necessary to overcome a preliminary prejudice, and then to learn the art of preparing the food for the table. This art is so well understood in France that it is hard for a Frenchman to understand why anybody should not like snails, just as an old-fashioned farmer cannot see any objection to pie, even at breakfast.

In favor of the snail as an article of food is the fact that it is a vegetable feeder and rather dainty in its eating when it has a choice. By living in a shell, or carrying its curiously twisted house on its back, it is not a reason for rejecting it from the culinary list. But I can understand how a sensitive vegetarian might be effected by the thought of killing and devouring a creature which walks around like a wandering Chinaman with a pagoda on his shoulders. Does not one always shrink from eating any kind of an animal which is remarkable for its beauty or for the delicacy of its appearance?

I wonder how far the splendor of the peacock's plumage goes in saving it from our tables, for in the palmy days of Roman luxury peacocks played a great part in feasts, especially their tongues and brains. Now we are content to keep peacocks for living ornaments, and when we want to eat tongues and brains we go to the lamb and the calf.

If the taste for snails could be once developed here "snail farming" might offer considerable profits. As I have said, snails are already raised for the market in California, a State which has never lost the spirit of initiative breathed into it when the magic gleam of its golden sands first caught the eyes of the world, and what is done there could, it is believed, be done on a large scale in the Mississippi valley.

Plenty of moisture, an abundance of vegetable food, and, in hot, dry weather, a free supply of water are the snail demands. The best species for the table is the Helix pascalis, or the vine snail, the same that the Romans raised and the largest member of the family of the Helicadæ, which includes no less than 4,000 species.

It certainly does not look like a table luxury as it crawls along with its eyes on the ends of two stalks, and it shell humping along on its back. These snails are fond of company—of their own kind—and that is one reason why they can be

Do Women Like Truth?

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Do women want a meal of flattery and compliments offered them as a tribute—or do they desire the finer tribute of honest, simple, and, if need be, bitter truth?

Does the feminine want even its needless sugar-coated, or is it willing to swallow a bitter dose if that will prove curative?

On the attitude of the individual woman toward these questions depends whether she is to have true friends as she goes through life, or whether she can hope for nothing better than acquaintances with women and flirtations with men.

The truth isn't always pleasant; how can it be? Life itself is far too bitter and grim a reality to make that possible. But the truth is curative. The people who tell it to you have taken the trouble to study you, to look at you soberly and fairly as an individual worthy their attention and interest, and to try to figure out what is for your good and advantage.

None of us can stand off and get a perspective on ourselves. All of us have unsuspected weaknesses and peculiarities and little mental twists and turns which make us repellant to some and charming to others. But, unfortunately, our weakness may make us repel those whom we most desire to attract. Then what can be more valuable than a friendship which tells us honestly and frankly where lie our weaknesses and where our chances of improvement?

The friend who is honest with you—honest, frank and perhaps even brutal—is the true friend. The flattering sycophant who offers honeyed words is actually your enemy. He does not look at you through rose-colored glasses and see you as better than you are, but he considers you a weakling who wants to be fed sugar plums and to be catered to and flattered.

Don't be cynical about the kind things people say to you; but take them with sanity and modesty, and try to accept in a spirit of sweetness adverse criticisms which may be about the healthiest done any friend can offer you.

Therein lies one of the qualities in masculine nature that enable it to stand more calmly than does the feminine life's wear and tear; men like flattery—but they can stand the truth. Some masculine weaklings adore compliments; but the average strong man prefers cold facts to fairy tales.

We women must cultivate in our natures a greater liking for honesty, though it be brutal.

Movie Actresses and Their Hair

Did it ever occur to you that every movie actress you have seen has lovely hair, while the most popular count their curls as their chief beauty? In fact (this is a secret), many are leading ladies just because of their attractive locks. Inquiry among them discloses the fact that they bring out all the natural beauty of their hair by careful shampooing, not with any soap or makeshift, but with a simple mixture which they make up for themselves by pulling a teaspoonful of canthrox (which they get from the druggist) in a cup of hot water and applying this instead of soap. After the use their hair dries rapidly, with uniform color. Dandruff, excess oil and dirt are dissolved and entirely disappear. The hair is so fluffy that it looks much heavier than it is. Its lustre and softness is delightful, while the stimulated scalp gains the health which insures hair growth.—Advertisement.

In Our Wonderful World

If Great Britain succeeds in capturing German East Africa she will come into possession of one of the greatest deposits of soda in the world. She has already an enormous deposit in Lake Magadi, which lies east of Lake Victoria Nyanza, and about 250 miles from the sea, and consists of a solid block of almost absolutely pure sesquicarbonate of soda, with a surface area of at least fifty square miles. It is known to be more than nine feet deep, and may be fifty or 100. The lake is generally dry, when it looks as if frozen. After rain it is covered with a layer of strong soda-water. It is fed by many springs, all charged, and some of them saturated with soda. This proves that somewhere near by there is a far larger deposit. Across the border-line in German East Africa are Lakes Natron, Eyassi and Lawa-Yanwerrie, larger than Lake Magadi, and formed of almost pure carbonate of soda.

A scientist kept goldfishes in a roomy tank and with plenty of food, but in absolute darkness. He kept it up for over three years and then observed the modifications that had occurred in the fish. The color first became black, but after the second year it became golden again, and the reason for this is interesting, in the first instance the dark pigment-cells spread out and covered up the subjacent layers of crystals which gives the goldfish its golden sheen. In the second instance the the phagocytes devoured the dark pigment-cells, and thus re-exposed the golden layer. The changes in the eye were even more interesting. The experiment suggests that an individual fish imprisoned in a perfectly dark cave would become blind. But it does not throw any direct light on the origin of a blind race of fishes in caves.

At the first sign of skin trouble apply Resinol

That patch of eruption is not necessarily a serious matter! STOMACH TROUBLE EIGHTEEN YEARS

Boston Lady Relates How Plant Juice Has Now Entirely Cured Her.

There is absolutely no necessity for any person suffering from stomach trouble losing time from his regular occupations, if following up one thing after another, business going to ruin, family miserable and suffering from worriment, money spent needlessly trying various "cures"—indigestion, gas, a waste of time and money. When the symptoms of a deranged stomach are: Sour risings, biliousness, constipation, dyspepsia, indigestion, nausea, heart burn, fermentation or food nauseous gases, they have a perpetrator that is a never-failing relief—Plant Juice.

Many local people have tested the health-giving influence of Plant Juice and have signed testimonials. For instance, Mrs. Ida Brooks, who lives at No. 16 Lesley Street, and is a well-known Boston lady with lots of friends, writes:

"For 18 years I have spent a fortune in doctoring and medicines, trying to get rid of a severe case of stomach trouble from which I suffered strongly. My food fermented and caused gas, I could not sleep at night, had headaches, was dizzy and had pains all through my body. For eight months I was confined to my bed and could not take anything but liquid food, my stomach was so weak and I suffered such pain that at times I knew nothing of what was going on about me. Then I got Plant Juice, took it faithfully and persuaded me to try it. Words cannot express how I felt after only a few doses of Plant Juice, as it has now put my stomach in fine condition. I sleep well, can eat all kinds of food, and I am feeling like a new woman—completely cured by Plant Juice."

The Plant Juice Man is at the Drug Department of the Houghton & Dutton store, where he is daily meeting the local public and introducing and explaining the merits of this remedy. —Advertisement.

TROOPS AWAIT ORDER TO RETURN

By BERT FORD.

El Paso, Tex., Sept. 19.—Massachusetts Field Hospital No. 1, commanded by Major John D. R. Woodworth, the Rhode Island Ambulance Company, and Troop H, Rhode Island Cavalry, will start home today following orders receiving last night.

They are the first of the New England units to leave the Mexican border. The early departure of the Massachusetts Field Hospital was exclusively forecasted by the AMERICAN last week. Orders for the infantry regiments will come next. It is expected that the movement home will be by regiments. The infantry orders are not looked for before Friday.

Military authority is a great thing. If you have the authority. An officer in the Ninth Regiment and a corporal are smitten with the same girl. She is a Texan with all that implies. She is educated and pretty. They agree that she is downright captivating. But the corporal has a few laps on his superior because he has a more dashing air and is younger and has an income. The dual courtship is the talk of the camp.

GIRL POUTS.

Matters seemed even for weeks until the last hop at the Eighth, in fact since then odds have been on the corporal. The superior officer wished to call on the young lady the other evening and study the Southern moon through the vines that curtain the veranda of her dad's rel bungalow. He asked for Corporal Blank and learned that he was seated on the very porch that his superior had selected for the evening.

That was where the military authority came in. An orderly on horseback ordered the corporal to return to camp at once for special duty. The girl pouted and just existed through the balance of the evening with the officer at her side and her thoughts with the lad with the tooth powder smile.

The much-delayed and much-discussed election in the Winthrop Machine Gun Company of the Fifth was put off indefinitely, the excuse this time being a regimental drill on the Mesa.

BARTER DISGUSTED.

Former Sergeant William H. Barter, who resigned under the dependent privilege and remained in El Paso purposely to vote and be a candidate for captain, has given up in disgust. He will probably leave today and meet Mrs. Barter at Galveston.

The postponement has renewed rumors of intimidation and colored ballots.

Wagoner Samuel Flanagan of the Supply Company of the Ninth received a telegram announcing the death of his two-year-old daughter. His home is at No. 20a Ninth street, South Boston. His comrades telegraphed an order for a floral piece.

MANY ENTRIES IN GIRLS' BIG SWIM

Entries are coming with a rush for the AMERICAN'S twelfth annual girls' swimming race for the New England championship, which will be held on Charles river basin next Saturday afternoon, September 23.

More than fifty entries are now in the hands of the swimming editor.

Entries close at SIX O'CLOCK SHARP THURSDAY AFTERNOON, SEPTEMBER 21.

So remember, all you girls who intend to enter but who have not yet done so, you have less than three days left.

Don't wait until the last minute. If you are going to enter, DO IT NOW.

Two of the latest entries in are from Providence. So the Greater Boston girls will have to compete, as they did last year, against rivals from other New England states.

GREAT RACE ASSURED.

At the rate entries are coming in, it looks as though there would be sixty or seventy girls entered before the time limit expires at 6 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

There are enough entered now to assure a splendid race, keeping up the high standard of competition and interest that has marked these swimming classics.

Superintendent West of the Metropolitan Park police and Lieutenant Chapman of the basin division are making arrangements to handle the tremendous crowd which annually gathers for this race.

PATROL BY LAUNCHES.

The swimming course, from the Metropolitan Park Commission's float, opposite the Union Boat Club quarters, upstream to the stakeboat under the Harvard Bridge and back, will be patrolled by the four motor launches of the park police. The crowds on the esplanade will find the park police, as usual, facilitating matters for swimmers, officials and spectators.

In the same way the Back Bay division of the city police assists in handling the crowd which jams the down-stream side of Harvard Bridge when the contest is on.

The race is in the handiest aquatic location in Greater Boston. The Boylston street [illegible] surface cars go within a short distance of the river and surface cars cross the Harvard bridge. Even though tens of thousands gather along the esplanade and on the bridge, there always seems to be plenty of room.

All it costs you is carfare and nothing if you walk. It is free for spectators, free for contestants, a free-for-all in every sense.

The time is convenient—Saturday afternoon, with the starter's revolver scheduled to send 'em splashing at 2:15.

TALK PEACE AS MORE JOIN STRIKE

By L. V. B. RICKER,
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

New York, Sept. 19—Despite the fact that motormen and conductors of the New York and Queens County Railway went on strike today, thus swelling the ranks of employes engaged in a bitter struggle with the traction magnates, decided impetus was given to peace efforts.

The new feeling made by Mayor Mitchel and Chairman Straus of the Public Service Commission. The Mayor insisted only on the question from the labor leaders, stating the conditions on which the could call off the strike in order that Chairman Straus and then take up the situation with committees representing the Chamber of Commerce and the Merchants' Association.

Mayor Mitchel said that he and Mr. Straus would ask the advice and assistance of the committees in an endeavor to adjust the difficulties and prevent the sympathetic strike which the labor leaders have declared will be called if the present trouble is not settled by 2 o'clock Friday afternoon.

This offered will be made to call out all of the 800,000 men and women union workers unless the effort can bring about an amicable adjustment of the strike has been stated to the Mayor by the labor leaders.

Indication that the threat could be taken seriously was given by the action of the United Hebrew trades, with a membership of 200,000 men, women and girls, in which a vote to strike the moment the carmen give the word.

With the spread of the strike to Queens County, where motormen and conductors went out, violence is increasing all over the city.

The most serious case was an attack on a Ninth avenue train at Fifty-sixth street, which resulted in the injury of John Claffy. Service on the subway and elevated was normal early. Going on surface car lines in Manhattan and Bronx were reported. One hundred and ten cars are being operated on the New York Railways Company lines at 6 o'clock.

Island Creek Coal Company

COMMON STOCK DIVIDEND.

The Directors of the Island Creek Coal Company have declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents per share upon the common capital stock of this company, payable October 2, 1916, to the stockholders of record at close of business September 23, 1916.

F. W. BATCHELDER, Treasurer.

STOCKS AND INVESTMENTS

Though the volume of business to noon on the New York Stock Exchange was the smallest since the boom started over a fortnight ago, prices continued their upward swing, after an irregular opening.

New high records were made by Tobacco Products at 55 and Maxwell Motor at 82¾.

Activity was in spots, first one stock taking the lead and then another. United States Steel was erratic, alternately showing gains and losses. At noon it was unchanged.

Crucible Steel responded to the giving of a $1.25 bock dividend with a gain of 1¾ points. Texas Company forfeited most of its early gains of 2 points, while Mexican Petroleum showed a fractional loss. California Petroleum advanced 1¾.

Activity also was shown shortly before noon attracted attention. American Zinc was up 1⅜ and Butte & Superior 1⅛. Universal Can made a new high for the year at 108⅛, a gain of 3¼ points.

Coppers were also showing strength. Anaconda advanced ⅝, Utah Copper ¼ and Inspiration ⅜. Railroads were inclined to irregularity, Reading, Union Pacific and Missouri Pacific were strong, while Baltimore & Ohio, New Haven and Southern Pacific were weak.

Westinghouse and General Electric were strong all the morning, the former lifting it points to the latter 1¾.

Other important gains were American Sugar 1¼ and Republic Iron & Steel 1⅛.

The Boston market was rather quiet all morning and slightly irregular. There were several exceptionally strong stocks, however.

Butte & Superior advanced 2½ points, American Zinc one point, predicted on 1, Tamarack 2 and United Fruit 1⅜. Other changes were mostly fractional.

Trading was light, the only common gained ½ point on limited trading. U. S. Smelting was weak, losing ¼.

BEVERLY BOY KILLED BY FALLING WALL

Beverly, Sept. 19—Edward Lawnesby, eight, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward L. Lawnesby, Rich street, died of asphyxiation when the sea wall being constructed on Lothrop boulevard caved in and buried him. Lawnesby and another boy were standing on the wall at the time it collapsed. Workmen employed about the wall released the boy and sought in vain to revive him with a lung motor. The body was taken by Acting Medical Examiner H. A. Sears.

T. F. Andrews Dead.

Lawrence, Sept. 19—Word was received here today that Thomas F. Andrews, proprietor of the Lawrence Brass Company, passed away at Houghton, Mich., while on a pleasure trip.

MEAN THIEF ROBS TABERNACLE MEN

With the settlement of the roofers strike at the Billy Sunday tabernacle on Huntington avenue today it developed that the tabernacle industry has suffered other trouble in the form of a thief. A man who lagged for work and sympathy and who received both stole $64 from the locker of Superintendent L. Wilkins and a gold watch from Thomas Ellison of No. 52 Kilby street, a workman. The chain was found in a pawnshop. The thief has disappeared.

The four roofers who struck yesterday because James T. Moriarty, business agent of Steel Metal Union Local No. 11, was discharged, returned to work today and settled the incident forgotten.

When Agent Moriarty found out that he had been let he admitted he blew a whistle and every roofer heard it distinctly and went in the direction of the whistle.

W. C. Manning, watchman, refers to the strike in this way, said:

"Four men drove up in an automobile, two of them carrying tools. On the grounds I asked them for their cards. They said they were steamfitters. I asked them for their cards of steamfitters. Agent Moriarty then turned around and said, 'Boys, I guess you do not let us in we will make trouble for you.'

"I told them if they would give good evidence why they wanted to be admitted, I would let them into the tabernacle.

"A whistle was blown and the roofers, carrying their tools, slid down the ladders and left the roof.

"As far as I am concerned, I am through. Moriarty can't do not deny me admission to the grounds as you can give me evidence of their business."

The theft of money and a watch and chain has caused the job to be heretofore by the tabernacle camp was an unpleasant surprise.

"This fellow came here with a long face and told a pitiable tale about suffering from his feet," declared said Nat Bartlett, the tabernacle second hook, who discovered the theft.

"We couldn't help making room for the man and we gave him comfortable chairs to sit on, that we had in our line at the time. He did other jobs around the office. We wanted to encourage him to get work. We told him we would do all in our power to get him back from his feet again."

"We did hope that this theft would not get into the newspapers. The man deserves the name of being the meanest man that I have ever met. He was also a sick man and should have done everything to help him along.

"But this is the way we get our compassion and good fellowship rewarded. By getting upon his feet, I serve what he will get and he can never escape."

As a result of this theft no one is allowed in the tabernacle grounds without a special permit.

ASK MILLS TO STATE POSITION

Lowell, Sept. 19.—The Lowell Board of Trade is sending letters to the big manufacturers of the Merrimack valley and to the soft coal shippers, demanding that they go on record for or against the Merrimack River navigation project. This demand is the result of information just received by the Board of Trade from General W. M. Black, chief of the United States army engineers, that, unless he can be convinced that the important coal users along the Merrimack are in favor of the project, there is no reason why the government should spend the money for it.

For three years the Boards of Trade of Lowell, Lawrence and Haverhill have been agitating for a government appropriation to make the Merrimack navigable. The expense is estimated from $3,000,000 to $15,000,000. The State has appropriated $1,000,000.

It now costs more to railroad a ton of coal from Boston to Lowell than it does to ship it from the coal fields to Boston.

The Lowell and Lawrence mills use the canal systems of those cities. The canal interests are opposed to the river project lest it affect the water power.

The Boards of Trade claim that the mill and canal corporations have been "dead" against the project, and that they lose on freight charges lost make up to the railroad.

Nathan Straus' Pasteurized Milk---and Infantile Paralysis

One Great FACT That Should Interest Open-Minded Doctors

Copyright, 1916, by the Star Company.

NATHAN STRAUS, WITH GRANT STRAUS, JR., MR. STRAUS' OLDER GRANDSON

The use of pasteurized milk, once sneered at by the milk companies, is now advertised by them as their greatest asset; once combatted by the doctors, it is now hurriedly resorted to by them in every emergency. Pasteurized milk and its benefits this and other countries owe to Nathan Straus, his experiments and generous spending of money during twenty-five years.

In institutions to which Mr. Straus has given pasteurizing plants the death rate of children has been cut in half.

In cities where plants have been installed by him or by the municipalities the death rate has been lowered immediately.

The grandchild shown in this photograph with Mr. Straus should have many friends among those of his generation. To his grandfather tens of thousands in years to come will owe the fact that they are alive.

The public is familiar with the work that Mr. Straus has done, and is grateful to him for it. A new feature is the effect of Mr. Straus' work in the dreadful epidemic of infantile paralysis.

Nathan Straus' pasteurized milk laboratories feed every day 2,500 children in New York city.

These children are of all ages, many of them infants for whom the milk is especially "modified" according to the formula of the great physician, Jacobi. Older children receive the milk in its full strength, but ALL PASTEURIZED.

These children are known; they belong as a rule to the less prosperous class, to those that gratefully take advantage of Mr. Straus' wise philanthropy.

We ask the public, and especially the doctors, to consider this fact:

Not one child using the pasteurized milk from the Straus Laboratory in New York city has had infantile paralysis throughout the entire epidemic.

Of these children, a majority live in the poorer quarters of the city, where cases of infantile paralysis have been most numerous.

Mr. Straus' milk is distributed both in Manhattan and in Brooklyn. During the Summer while the cloakmakers were on strike and their children hungry, Mr. Straus supplied milk to a thousand families, and when the strike ended he continued his distribution in the borough of Brooklyn.

It is true that thus far the actual cause of infantile paralysis, the nature of the disease, the way in which it is spread, and other points are to some extent matters of guesswork.

But there stands out one FACT that is not guesswork.

Of thousands of children using Nathan Straus' pasteurized milk, every one has been free from the dreadful disease.

Such a vital FACT looming up amid all the uncertainty, doubt and anxiety is of great public importance. It interests every physician whose mind like that of the great Pasteur himself is open to truth, willing to go wherever truth may lead.

One of the greatest physicians in New York expressed to us the opinion that it is milk that carries infantile paralysis infection.

This is of course not positively PROVED and investigation must continue in all directions.

But this opinion of a great physician, backed up by the absolute FACT that immunity from infantile paralysis has been granted to the children who have used Nathan Straus' pasteurized milk, deserves and must have most careful attention and study.

Meanwhile, on behalf of thousands of children who owe him their lives, of thousands of mothers who owe him peace of mind, we again express the public gratitude to Nathan Straus, wishing him a long life and the best of health to enjoy contemplation of the good work that he has done in the world.

FRISKED BY FREEBOOTERS!

A Tale of Tear-Compelling Tribulations, Ghoulish Greed and Low-browed Larceny!

"Have mercy!" This perfectly reasonable and courteous request, uttered by H. Walsingham Goggles, one of the captives of the pirate crew, was met by a shout of coarse ribaldry and cries of "Oh, pshaw!" "Pooh!" "The Idea!" and other expressions habitually used by buccaneers. The heartless marauders then fastened roller skates on the feet of their helpless victims and put them on a plank which overhung the bulwark or front porch of the low, black, rakish craft. All hope seemed gone when suddenly a slick-looking cruiser hove in sight. Would our heroes be saved? Naw! Approaching in a graceful circle, the cruiser hoisted the signal, "Too proud to fight!" and disappeared on the horizon, while the outlaws roared out the following chanty:

"Oh, the pirate's life is jolly and brisk,
And we are a frolicsome bunch!
The People's pockets we gayly frisk;
Then we joyously go to lunch!"

Welfare and Women's Clubs

By Woods Hutchinson, M. D.

The World's Best Known Writer on Medical Subjects.

WOMEN'S clubs are different from men's—for which the community has reason to be devoutly thankful. One of the oldest and most unanswerable, rock-ribbed, moss-grown objections to granting woman the freedom of the city and a voice in the forum was that they couldn't conduct public affairs as well as and in the same way that men could. Which, incidentally, was one of the best possible reasons for letting them have a try at the job—they MIGHT have made things worse, but it is hardly within the bounds of possibility!

When looked at quietly for a moment this massive objection simply resolves itself into an assertion that women cannot do the things which men like to do, in the way men like to do them, as well as men can, or, rather, think they can. The objection is unanswerable, simply because it requires no answer. It rested solely upon the colossal conceit of the male and his calm assumption that the way in which he had always done things was the best, if not the only, way to do them. And if woman couldn't or wouldn't do them that way, she was unfit for the duties of citizenship.

But in the beginning the absurd and illogical challenge was accepted even by the pioneers in the fight for the rights of women to be regarded and treated as people. Their eloquence was directed towards proving that women could beat man at his own game under the irrational rules which he had laid down. That they could pack caucuses and steer conventions as deftly as he could; that they could compete with him in industry under abominable sanitary conditions, or for ruinous and health-destroying hours of labor; that they could win scholarships and prizes and class-standings under his medieval and stupid forms of higher education. Women's colleges were made mere lavender-water and slavish imitations of men's colleges—already outworn and antiquated in their methods. Women's business methods must be exactly the same as men's—long hours, foul air, poor light, and even lower and more starvation wages; women's clubs were to follow in the footsteps of men's clubs as closely as possible.

Consequently when the woman's club movement was first formed, woman's social needs being already met, and public life, politics and business being still closed to her, its aspirations took the only form left open, and concerned themselves chiefly with the fields of literature and art. In their earlier days it was fashionable and easy to smile at the ambitious range of some of its programs, fifteen-minute papers on "Art; from the Egyptians to the Present Day," "The Influence of Music on Architecture" and "Was Cleopatra Immoral?" "Emerson and the Over-Soul," forgetting that those were precisely the kind of subjects that male aspirations for culture had concerned themselves with in academies, lyceums and literary societies from the days of the Egyptian mysteries and the Athenian sophists.

But it wasn't long before feminine practicality and public spirit and the real interests and likings of womanhood began to assert themselves. When they had got fully out of their shells, rid of the cramping restrictions of the home atmosphere, the subjects which should not be discussed before children, the things that men don't like to be bothered about when they come home tired from business, the fetters upon frankness imposed by hostess upon guests and by the guests upon hostess, they began to sit up and take notice of public affairs in a new and impersonal way. They had established a sort of feminine Alaska, a Free Mark, a literal No-Man's-Land, where women could come together as women, not as wives, or mothers, or daughters, or church-workers, or schemers for social position, but as citizens of the State, representing the larger half, and as the guardians and caretakers of children, full four-fifths of the community.

After they had ceased to be afraid of the sound of their own voices, discussing public questions right out in meeting, it didn't take them long to discover that although men on the whole had conducted public affairs and built and run cities and towns with a commendable degree of enterprise and energy, they had made a terribly messy, and untidy and unattractive job of it in many respects.

While the main streets were fairly well paved and kept, and the leading business buildings in presentable and creditable condition, many of the side streets, all the back streets and alleys and most of the factories and regions in which operatives had to live were in a condition which grossly offended both the eye and the nose of good, model housekeepers.

Man Woman's Chief Woe

But, Admits Dorothy Dix

He Is Also Her Chief Joy

Most of the Feminine Sorrows Due to the Male of the Species, but Few of the Sufferers Ever Flee from This Perpetual Maker of Their Troubles

By Dorothy Dix

A WOMAN'S club in the West, which has been trying to solve the eternal problem of human woe, has decided that so far as women are concerned the fountain head of trouble is man. In proof of this contention they cite the facts that widows are proverbially fat and jolly, and that old maids, as soon as they cease to struggle against fate and abandon themselves to celibacy, wear an expression of peaceful calm that no married woman ever exhibits.

This sounds very much as if the modern Eve had borrowed Grandpa Adam's Garden of Eden excuse, and was laying the blame for trouble on someone else. Nevertheless there is a grain of truth in her accusation.

Man is at the bottom of most of women's sorrows. But for him she would seldom have cause to weep. Yet she is never so happy as when he is kissing away the tears he has made her shed. Life without him would be a stormless voyage over a placid sea, but it would be so dull she would be bored to death before she reached the end of it.

Let us examine into some of the burdens which man lays upon the shoulders of his sister woman.

Some Get Several Husbands Easily, While Some Get None at All

In the first place, one of woman's greatest troubles is the difficulty in catching a husband. This is undeniably man's fault. Why can't he have a heart, and come up and stick his head in the halter instead of wearing woman out chasing him down?

Of course, there are women who were born with the marriage certificate in their hands, so to speak, and get not only one husband, but two or three, as death or divorce requires. Other women waste their entire lives in a vain pursuit of one husband, and the majority of the female sex devote from two to ten years to the business of husband hunting. What they go through in that time—the weariness, the anxiety, the boredom—is enough to qualify them as saints through martyrdom.

Nor are a woman's troubles ended when she acquires a husband. Then comes the trouble of keeping him. This also is man's fault. No man ever worries his head about keeping his wife in love with him, but women get crow's feet and gray hairs agonizing over the problem of how to keep their husbands fascinated.

This is the reason that married women look older than their single sisters of the same age. The girl bachelor may have her own anxiety and tribulation over the bread and butter supply, but she doesn't have to wait up until 3 a. m. to deliver a lecture to a man who rolls in with the rolls.

Nor does she have to worry over the prospect of losing a love that is not strong enough to stand a thirty-three-inch waist measure. You never see old maids dieting or physical culturing.

Having no man to please, they take on fat or scrawniness as heaven sends it, and make no effort to conform to any masculine standard of pulchritude.

Another misfortune that woman may lay at man's door is the awful burden of dress. If women don't paint because men admire roses on a woman's cheeks; if they don't lace because men are hopelessly committed to a willowy figure; if they don't pinch their feet and wear high-heeled shoes because for thousands of years men have sung and glorified little tootsies, will somebody arise in meeting and kindly explain why the minute that women are alone, and safe from masculine eyes, they cold cream their faces, shed their stays with a gasp of relief, and get into kimonos and flip-flop slippers?

It is significant that all of the fashions for women that crib, cabin and confine have been invented by men, while woman's efforts in devising dress have run to bloomers and polymuriels, things that you can get on with one hand and that fasten with one hook. Even the French couturiers have had enough compassion on their sex to invent the natural waistline and the short skirt.

And, finally, it is man who is at the bottom of all of our servant troubles, because except for man we would not cook, and therefore there would be no recalcitrant cook lady. Except for man there would be no more dinners, and the world would be run on a tea and toast basis, and the maid would cease from troubling and the cook stove be at rest.

Has Always Found Trouble in Guise of Man, but Has Never Fled from It

It is for man that woman pickles and jells, and preserves and roasts. Left to herself, the simple sandwich, the festive olive, and the succulent caramel would suffice, and Mary Jane might stay, or go, without raising a ripple on the domestic pond; but with husband clamoring for food—real food—the servant girl problem becomes a burning issue, the solution of which no woman can see.

But why delve deeper into the subject? Enough has been said to show that when woman was created she found trouble, in the guise of man, waiting for her, but instead of fleeing from it—from that day to this she has been chasing after it.

She has welcomed her affliction, for while life with man is full of stress and storm, without him it is cinders, ashes and dust, and not worth having. And there you are.

Meanings

By Jane McLean

SEPTEMBER is a month to you, a month and nothing more,
Another flock of joyous hours to count off by the score.
To me it is a month of dreams, when Autumn shy and sweet,
With wild young arms flung to the sky, sweeps down the rain wet street.

To you it means the shortened days, the dark that comes too soon,
But I may read the night's calm eyes and feel my soul in tune.
To you it means the sharper tang that thrills the wind with wine,
But I may walk the country lane, his cold hand clasped in mine.

To you it means that Fall has come, the world is growing gray;
To me it means a gypsy heart, an open road to stray.
